Early Voting Is Reported Well Ahead of Last Year

With clearing skies and rising temperatures the tempo of voting in the municipal election increased throughout Wednesday morning, and on present indications it would appear that at least a 40 per cent vote will be cast.

WHILE SEVERAL of the polls reported that voting was very slow, deputy returning officers all agreed that the voters were turning out in greater numbers and that a fairly substantial vote could be expected.

At the Market Square poll 48 ballots had been cast up to noon, compared with seven at the same time in the 1944 election. Other downtown polls reported similar increases. At this poll two electors swore in their votes.

DEPUTY RETURNING officers at the IOOF hall, 103 street, reported voting well ahead of last year, and at the Crane, Ltd., building, 109

Goal in Sight

City Sales in Victory Loan At 82 Per Cent.

Edmonton swept well past the 80 per cent. mark when 1,677 applications were received Tuesday for $646,500 to bring the total for the campaign so far in the Ninth Victory Loan campaign to $6,348,700 for 82.5 per cent. of the $7,700,000 quota set for the city. Total of subscribers up to Tuesday night was 19,354.

THE CORRESPONDING day in the eighth Victory Loan campaign was V-E Day and all operations were suspended. On that day only 37 applications were received for $94,900 to bring the total in that campaign to $4,714,650 from 20,874 investors for 74.2 per cent. of the lower quota set for that loan.

Despite raging snowstorms and sub-zero temperatures Victory Loan sales throughout the province went

Lord Haw Haw Appeal Rejected

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(UP)—The British court of criminal appeals rejected today an appeal by William (Lord Haw Haw) Joyce from his conviction and death sentence for high treason.

Lord Chief Justice Lord Caldecote read the court's decision. He said the proposition that an alien, by leaving Britain, was not capable of committing treason was a startling one, and "one which this court is quite unable to accept."

Joyce's defence was based mainly on the contention that he was not a British citizen and thus did not commit treason against Britain when he broadcast Nazi propaganda from Germany during the war.

After the denial of the appeal, Joyce's counsel said he would apply for a certificate to appeal to the house of lords, his last recourse.

606 Miles an Hour

New Air Speed World Record Set by Briton

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

HERNE BAY, Eng., Nov. 7. — (BUP)—A Royal Air Force jet-propelled plane, piloted by Eric Greenwood, chief test pilot for the Gloster Aviation Company, set a new world's speed record of 606 miles an hour today, shortly after another pilot had raised the mark to 602 miles an hour.

Greenwood made the 606-mile average in his "Yellow Meteor" in four official runs over the Herne Bay course, hitting a high of 612 miles an hour on one.

HE BROKE the record within an hour after his friend Group Captain Hugh Wilson had streaked another jet-propelled ship "Britannia" over the same course for a record of 602 miles an hour.

Both pilots flew the course in conformity with rules of the Fed-

British in Java Placed on Alert

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

BATIVIA, Nov. 7.—(BUP)—British troops throughout Java have been alerted against a general Indonesian uprising, informed sources said today following the flat rejection by Nationalist leaders of a proferred "partnership" in the Dutch empire.

An uneasy calm prevailed early today in two main trouble centres in Batavia and Soerabaja—but it was learned that the British commander had issued stand-to orders to all their widely-dispersed forces on the island.

The new crisis apparently traced to the breakdown in negotiations between Dutch authorities and the Nationalist leaders.

The Dutch Aneta News agency said Dr. Soekarno, president of the "Indonesian Republic," had publically rejected the Netherlands government declaration providing for native partnership in the empire.

Democrat Wins N.Y. Mayoralty

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Democrat William O'Dwyer swamped two major opponents and won election as mayor of New York City yesterday. His vote far exceeded the aggregate of his opposition.

In the second municipal scrap that captured more than local attention in yesterday's first post-war United States voting, Mayor Edward J. Jeffries was elected to a fourth term in Detroit's non-partisan mayoralty race against Richard T. Frankensteen, CIO union leader.

Irish-born Gen. O'Dwyer won the $25,000 a year job in the face of cries that Tammany Hall supported him; that thugs and gangsters were behind his candidacy.

He will take office Jan. 1—the first Democrat to be elected mayor here in 12 years.

Stalin Is Still Holding Helm Says Churchill

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Winston Churchill, wartime prime minister of Great Britain, told the House of Commons today that Generalissimo Stalin "is still strongly holding the helm and steering his tremendous ship," the Soviet Union.

Mr. Churchill referred to the Russian leader as "that great man, Marshal Stalin."

Ex-City Soldier Gets Life Sentence

VANCOUVER, Nov. 7—(CP)—A murder conviction against Daniel Harrison, formerly of Edmonton, was changed to manslaughter in British Columbia court of appeal yesterday. Harrison, who was sentenced to hang Nov. 8 for the May 7, 1944, slaying of tugboat engineer Clifford Lennox, 21, had his sentence changed to life imprisonment. Lennox formerly lived in Winnipeg.

Jobs Protected For All Members Of Interim Force

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Veterans Minister Mackenzie said in the Commons yesterday an order-in-council has been passed assuring members of the interim forces of reinstatement in their civilian positions after discharge.

Later, the minister told reporters he did not have details of the order but he understood the assurance was extended only for a limited time.

The order, made on recommendation of Labor Minister Mitchell, is expected to be tabled in the House Wednesday.

Total of 300 Casualties Caused

74 Jews Killed in Tripoli Rioting

By WALTER COLLINS
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

CAIRO, Nov. 7.—(BUP)—British headquarters announced today that 74 Jews were killed and a total of about 300 casualties caused at Tripoli in violent anti-Jewish rioting blamed on irresponsible Arab mobs.

The British information office said rioting broke out at Tripoli Sunday night and apparently had not been brought under control as late as last night.

THE VIOLENCE at Tripoli, big Mediterranean port in western Libya, followed by two days a fracas up in Egypt which resulted in scores of deaths and injuries.

The British listed the casualties in Tripoli up to last night as 74 Jews killed, 183 injured, one Arab killed, 36 injured, and two Italians injured.

The grave outbreak of rioting, violence and arson was attributed by the British information office to Arab bands renewing the anti-Jewish attacks which for weeks have caused a high state of tension in the Middle East.

BRITISH AUTHORITIES took "stern measures," the announcement said. They included imposition of a curfew and establishment of strong patrols by both troops and police with orders to shoot all looters and fire if necessary to disperse groups of more than five persons.

A number of Arabs were arrested, the British said.

China Communists Seize U.S. Seamen

SHANGHAI, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The reported seizure by Chinese Communists of several United States crewmen from a Liberty ship in the Chinwangtao area today brought a prompt news blackout in United States army headquarters in Shanghai.

Newspapermen, dependent on British sources, were told some seamen were seized by Chinese Communists but some were released with apologies.

United States army spokesmen refused to discuss the matter and the United States consul general's office here said only that "vague" reports had been received.

The known facts are the presence in North China of United States Marines and the operation of several Liberty ships, arousing considerable resentment among the Communists.

Adulterated Liquor Protested in House

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—If milkmen did to milk what provincial governments did to liquor during the war they would have been put in jail, Arthur Smith (PC-Calgary West) said last night in the Commons. Mr. Smith said the governments not only increased the price of liquor but they adulterated the product. Mr. Smith said he was the kind of man who, if "offered a little", took it to taste.

Fair and Cold Weather Forecast

Weather forecast for the Edmonton area is "fair and cold," with the estimated high for today 10 above zero.

The estimated overnight low is zero, and the high tomorrow, 12.

Temperature did not go as low as anticipated overnight, but hovered around zero.

Maximum temperature Tuesday was nine above, and the low, two below zero. The overnight low was two above, and at 2 p.m. it was 5 above.

Kern Improves

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Jerome Kern, internationally-known composer of popular songs, who suffered an apoplectic stroke Monday, was reported still on the critical list yesterday, although his condition was "slightly improved."

Drug Men Honor Maj. Tilston, VC

CALGARY, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Five Alberta winners of the Victoria Cross in the First Great War have been invited to welcome Major Fred A. Tilston, Windsor, Ont., winner of the Victoria Cross in the Second Great War, who will be the guest of honor at a dinner here Nov. 14.

Major Tilston who lost both legs in the Hochwald battle, will arrive in Calgary Monday morning, Nov. 12, from Toronto.

The dinner has been arranged by the Alberta Pharmaceutical Association, the Calgary and District Retail Druggists' Association and the Range Riders (drug travellers) Association. Maj. Tilston, a graduate pharmacist, was sales manager of an eastern pharmaceutical firm when he enlisted with the Essex Scottish regiment in 1939. He is well known in Northern Alberta where he travelled for his firm for some years.

The other VC winners expected to attend are Brig. F. M. Harvey, commanding officer of MD 13, Lt.-Col. Harcus Strachan, Calgary; Lt. Harry Mullins, Seebe; Sgt. Major Cecil Kinross, Lougheed, and Regimental Sgt. Major R. L. Zengel, Sulfield.

Reds Hold Puppet

CHUNGKING, Nov. 7.—(AP)—A dispatch to the newspaper Ta Kung Pao from Changchun, capital of Manchuria, said yesterday it was reported there that Henry Pu Yi, former Japanese puppet Emperor of Manchukuo (Manchuria), had been taken to Moscow as a prisoner of the Russians.

Ninth Victory Loan Surges Toward Goal

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Canada's Ninth Victory Loan tabulators today recorded $1,289,646,250 in cumulative sales —well within striking distance of its huge $1,500,000,000 objective—and unless there is a drastic falling off in the rising tide of subscriptions the objective may be passed two days before the end of the three-week campaign.

TOTAL AT THE SAME point in the Eighth Loan was $974,276,400. Actual sales Tuesday amounted to $66,350,250 compared with $13,130,350 on the corresponding day of the last loan, but that was the slim VE-Day canvass.

Tuesday's individual sales reached $59,960,200 against $9,357,550 on VE-Day. Sales to individuals for the 14 days are $635,167,600 compared with $485,408,200 on the same day of the last loan.

AMONG SUBSTANTIAL purchases reported yesterday was the Western Savings and Loan Association, Winnipeg, $1,000,000.

Employees of the Canadian National Railways and Trans-Canada Air Lines, the largest employee group in Canada, have broken all their records in victory loan purchases. Up to Monday night, they had purchased $15,137,500 of Ninth Loan bonds.

Big Powers Urged Put Cards on Table

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(BUP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin appealed to the great powers on behalf of the British government today to "put their cards on the table" in order to dissipate the uncertainty over the atomic bomb.

Bevin spoke during foreign policy debate in Commons, which Winston Churchill opened by expressing hope that Britain would not bring pressure on the United States to reveal all the atom bomb secrets to Russia.

"I APPEAL to the great powers on behalf of the government—we are ready to do it—to put their cards on the table—face upward," Bevin said.

Launching into a discussion of atomic power and the problems it posed, Bevin said:

"It is going to be long, weary, hard and patient work before this new form of energy is available to rejuvenate and revolutionize industrial energy. I do not think the excitement about it is as justified as people make out.

"THAT ENCOURAGES ME to believe that as this industrial development of atomic energy is cost-

New Organization

Alberta's Farm Groups to Join With Federation

A new farm organization in Alberta which will take in all existing organizations and become an integral part of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture is in the making.

As a first step reorganization of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture to provide for the merging of the United Farmers of Alberta and the Alberta Farmers' Union is the object of a resolution to be brought before the annual conventions of all three organizations to be held in November, December and January.

THE RESOLUTION which will be brought before the three conventions is a result of a number of meetings which have been held during the year by a joint committee of the UFA and the AFU to discuss the many problems facing the farm people.

Already the ground work for the new organization has been laid, and

Announce Names 4 Crash Victims

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—The five-man crew of a RCAF flying boat carrying penicilin to England was killed when the plane crashed yesterday near Muenster, Germany. Airforce headquarters announced today. News of the crash was released yesterday in London, but names of the crew were withheld until next-of-kin had been informed. The dead:

Pilot Lt. N. C. Roche of Duval, Que; Squin. Ldr. A. E. Webster, DFC of Ottawa; Flt. Lt. D. F. Caldwell of Ottawa; Flt. Lt. E. H. Harding of Ottawa and Sgt. E. E. Phillips of Montreal.

Quit Czech Soil

LONDON, Nov. 7. — (CP) — The Moscow radio, quoting a dispatch from Prague, said last night that Soviet army forces were quitting Czechoslovakia.

Premier Says:

All of Alberta Defaulted Bonds Now Wiped Out

Alberta has no more defaulted bonds, said Premier Ernest Manning at a press conference Wednesday. They have been wiped out as a result of negotiations by Mr. Manning, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, and J. F. Pereival, deputy provincial treasurer, at New York from where they have just returned.

THE PREMIER told the press some of the details of the refunding which are as follows: Price of the new bonds in U.S. funds $96.25, which is the Canadian equivalent of $105.87. Combined Canadian and U.S. refunding $29,365,000 at an average combined rate of 2.96 per cent. Average price of bonds up to 15 years $96.06 in U.S. funds, Canadian equivalent $105.12.

Combined average yield to the purchaser is 3.37 per cent, for which the Canadian equivalent is 2.46.

COUPON RATES of bonds sold in U.S. range from 2.75 to 3.25. These were sold to the public at rates yielding 2.90 to 3.45.

The $96,000,000 worth of bonds, including defaulted and unmatured, deposited as required by the terms of the refunding offer, which called for the deposit of 75 per cent of the bonds, represents 85 per cent of the total of $113,200,000. These have been received from all over the world, Mr. Manning said.

MR. MANNING pointed out that maturities for the next five years are all in Canada. "We are hopeful," he said, "that in that time the rate of exchange may take a turn in our favor."

Both Christmas, New Years Days Will Be "Meatless"

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—The prices board confirmed today that both Christmas and New Years day—Tuesdays—will be meatless days but they explained that Stores were essentially days for the eating of fowl, anyway, and rationing held no restrictions in that field.

No special concessions will be granted restaurants or other eating places which might permit them to serve other than non-rationed meats.

Monday, Nov. 12, Not Proclaimed General Holiday

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Next Monday, the day following the Nov. 11 Remembrance Day observance, will not be regarded as a Dominion holiday, government officials said last night.

A spokesman noted that Ontario schools would remain closed Monday and said this was entirely a provincial matter.

In a statement yesterday State Secretary Martin called for two minutes' silence throughout Canada at 11 a.m. Sunday in remembrance of those who died while serving in the First and Second Great Wars.

5,800 Japanese Police Are "Fired"

TOKYO, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Japan gave its once-domineering police system another rough shakeup today by firing more than 5,800 enforcement and surveillance personnel, and pronouncing it would appoint civilian advisory boards in major Tokyo police districts with unprecedented power to criticize public actions of officers.

The Japanese government also released 5,007 political prisoners and discontinued "protection and surveillance" over 2,026 other individuals.

on without interruption Tuesday and the province is now at the $4.1 per cent. mark of its overall objective of $51,000,000.

Six further units, including the city of Medicine Hat, went over the top during the day. Medicine Hat is the third Alberta city to pass its quota. The others are Red Deer and Lethbridge.

TUESDAY WAS the best day of the campaign despite the unfavorable weather. The total sales on Tuesday amounted to $3,846,500 to bring the grand total to $43,440,550. This represents an increase of $8,000,000 compared with the total at the same period of the 1943 loan.

Largest individual subscription of the day was reported from the special names division, and it represented an application for $2,000,000 from the Alberta Workmen's Compensation Board.

IN THE general canvass section 5,809 applications were received for sale of $2,566,600 to bring the grand total of $7,057 applications for $32,500,200, an increase of nearly $4,000,000 compared with the last loan for the same elapsed period.

Units which went over the top on Tuesday, in addition to Medicine Hat, were Empress, Fort McMurray, Canmore, Elk Point and Sylvan Lake.

In the special names division three subscriptions were received on Tuesday. They were: Alberta Teachers' Retirement Fund, $100,000; Imperial Hardware, Ltd., $50,000, and Weber Bros. Agencies, Ltd., $25,000.

The three leading Edmonton salesmen Tuesday were George Wright, G. W. Robinson, and Leo Ayotte.

The Medicine Hat-Suffield of the Wakatenau-Radway-Thorhild division has now reached 108 per cent. of its $50,000 quota, and the employees of the CNR at Edson have been awarded a "V" flag for exceeding their quota. Railway employees at Wainwright also have passed their original quota and are recipients of the "V" flag.

MILITARY PERSONNEL stationed in Alberta have set a fine record in Canada's Ninth Victory Loan campaign. When the loan opened Military District 13 had a strength total of 7,447 and they set out to achieve a mark of at least one bond for every man in the province.

Tuesday they achieved that mark with individual subscriptions skyrocketing over the 7,500 mark with a total of $1,632,100 in bonds.

This represents 320 per cent of the district's original quota of $510,000. Tuesday's sales totalled $50,000 with district depot leading for the day with $4,500.

ACCORDING TO latest available figures from the entire command, RCAF personnel of the North West Air command are subscribed for for Bonds in Canada's 9th loan totalling $374,300.00. The original quota for the command was $120,000.

At command headquarters, Edmonton, a third objective has been set. The original quota for this unit was $59,000.00. When this was achieved an objective of 150 per cent of the quota was set, and Wing Cmdr Howard Watson, victory loan organizer for the unit states that the airforce personnel in Edmonton are now striving to hit the high peak of 400 per cent of quota. Bonds totalling $208,550 have been purchased.

City's Polls Open Until 8 p.m.

Free Franchise Is Said Basis Of Genuine Modern Democracy

When a total stranger offers something of great value free of charge or obligation his motive is usually regarded with justifiable suspicion. Democracy, however, is no willing stranger to Canadians. Edmonton is in Canada. Until 8 p.m. today Edmonton votes on the government that is to guide it through the difficult period of reconversion from wartime to peaceime. Democracy offers Edmonton's citizens something of the highest value without charge or obligation—your franchise; your vote! The fine and successful efforts of Edmontonians during the First and Second Great Wars proved beyond doubt that they believe in, and cherish, democracy.

The cartoon may suggest a light or perhaps even flippant touch in the privilege of voting your public servants in or out. But it has a reconciling feature that Edmontonians might well emulate. Even with the good wife's temptation to linger and view the stunning creations in chapeaux, these two good democratic citizens are at least on their way to the polling booth. With persuasion, perseverance and determination hubby will eventually get over there, where she may favor with an X whomever she wishes on the list of candidates. They are both true democrats and will cast their vote for Edmonton's next civic administration before the polls close at 8 p.m. Wednesday. They know the chapeaux will be there when the store opens Thursday, but the vote will not. Do your stuff, Edmontonians!

Today, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., the polls are open in all sections of the city. If you are a bona fide resident of Edmonton and you have registered your name on the voters' list your franchise awaits your pleasure in the polling station in your district. Moreover, electors whose names have been omitted from the list may become eligible by taking an oath in the polling district in which they are residing. Veterans who arrive back in the city even today will be permitted to vote. There is therefore no legitimate excuse for neglecting this privilege, not even the weather!

Democracy is only as effective as the efforts of the survivors of the people who fought and died for its maintenance and prosperity. Two World Wars, with a staggering toll in the lives of democrats, have proved that Canadians want democracy. Edmonton is in Canada, and Edmonton pulled to all proud record of the 49th and The Loyal Edmonton Regiment, and other units to support them, want democracy.

The issues at stake are probably the greatest ever facing Albertans in a civic election. Do not make the mistake of undervaluing your free, unfettered franchise. Many other nations did at the commencement of the war which has just concluded. Can more be said? Yes, more can be said.

Just this—to get out and vote will take five, 10, 15 or 20 minutes, perhaps an hour, of your time in cold and uncomfortable weather. Leave it to George? Surely you don't want him to do it again. Remember? It was left to George in 1939—George VI. He did an historical job in providing you with the opportunity to vote today.

When the votes are totalled tonight the candidates for office, as well as the remainder of the interested, thinking, democratic citizenry of Edmonton, expect a volume of votes that will exceed any record of any city or province in the Dominion.

Remember, it is not your duty, but your PRIVILEGE, to cast your vote in Edmonton's civic election before 8 o'clock tonight!

War Expenses To Be Probed By Committee

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley said yesterday in the Commons the government would favor open sittings of the war and demobilization expenditures committee this session.

He did so in proposing a motion to set up a committee similar to the one which functioned during the war sessions. He said the government wished the committee to examine current expenditures and current practices and not to tread on the work of the public accounts committee which examined past expenditures and any charges of wrong doing.

"THIS SHOULD be a committee for the purpose of effecting economics, saving the country money and assisting the government to carry on as economically as possible.

While the committee mainly sat in camera during the war for security reasons the government now had no objection to sittings in the open. The same rule which applied to all committees would apply, namely that if secret sessions were considered desirable in particular instances the committee could decide so itself.

J. M. MACDONNELL (PC, Muskoka-Ontario) asked if everyone except the members of the committee would be excluded from discussing war expenditures and the disposal of war assets.

Veterans' Minister Mackenzie, acting house leader, said the members would be able to debate war expenditures and disposal of war assets.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said he thought the functions of the war expenditures committee and the committee of the whole house were rather different.

THE HOUSE was able to give only a "superficial" study to matters before it but the war expenditure committee could give a "real thorough" examination because its members could be divided into subcommittees to take up specific expenditures for closer scrutiny.

The war expenditures committee also could call departmental officials to give testimony while the Commons had only the opportunity to question the cabinet minister concerned, who had to depend on information he obtained from his deputies.

F. D. SHAW (SC-Red Deer) said he hoped the committee would not be restricted in its investigations of expenditures to the present.

His party supported the resolution establishing the committee which he believed would do good work.

John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, said assurances that members would not be precluded from discussing in the House matters covered by the committee.

Mr. Ilsley said it was a matter for the speaker to decide.

SPEAKER Gaspard Fauteux suggested that the resolution be passed and that a decision be made later if there should be a desire to refer the House touching matters covered by the committee.

Work for Farrier Fournier said the resolution dealing with the war expenditures committee referred only to expenditures already made and had nothing to do with expenditures in the war appropriation bill now before the House.

Mr. Knowles said that under the House rules all that was necessary was for the government to give any undertaking the House would not be precluded from discussion of expenditures.

Barracks Prowler Sought in Britain

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(CP)—The Canadian Provost Corps and civil police are at work tracking down an unknown assailant who during the last three nights attempted to strangle two service women in the Canadian Army area of Aldershot, the Maple Leaf, Canadian Army newspaper, reported yesterday from Aldershot.

Both attacks were made in sleeping quarters and all women's barracks have been placed under close guard, with extra police patrolling camp areas. Two women who saw the assailant described him as a man in a Canadian Army uniform.

The army newspaper said the latest victim was Lieut. Joyce Farrant of Toronto, member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, who has been removed to hospital suffering shock and neck injuries. She awoke early to find the sheets and pillows of her bed spattered with blood and her neck badly bruised and lacerated. She said she had a nightmare that she was being murdered.

Last Saturday night a member of the Auxiliary Territorial Service, the women's division for the British Army, reported a similar attack. Near midnight two companions in an adjoining room heard her scream. They rushed into her room to find her being attacked. One of the girls rushed at the assailant, but he struck her and fled. They said he wore a Canadian Army uniform.

139,953 Are Carried in Day

All-Time Record For Passengers Is Established on Street Railway

An all-time record for traffic on Edmonton's street railway system was established Saturday, Nov. 4, when 139,953 patrons crowded into street cars, trolley coaches, and buses, it was announced Wednesday by Thomas Ferrier, street railway superintendent. The previous record was 130,700 made on March 4, 1944.

Traffic on the system during October totalled 2,961,897 passengers, an increase of 405,775 over the figure for October of last year.

Total traffic for the 10 months ended Oct. 31, 1945, was 27,473,638, which is 1,077,578 above the total at the end of the same period in 1944.

Mr. Ferrier made an appeal to women to do their shopping in the off-peak traffic hours, and to be on their way home by at least 5 p.m. He asked especially that an effort be made to do all shopping during the first three days of the week.

Atom Policy

ly and long term. it will give us time to build up the United Nations organization for peace, and that as it evolves for industry the necessity for its use for the atomic bomb will disappear.

"I am not too concerned about it, but our policy in connection with world peace as the absolutely predominant consideration."

"We will take no steps, we will do nothing nor allow any of our agents or diplomats to do anything to stir up hatred or provoke a situation detrimental to Russia in the eastern countries.

"If you give that security against attacks or intrigues or stirring up of difficulties, I cannot accept that the natural thing that follows it to close the door and prevent any contact with the people for trade or anything else.

"NEITHER AM I PREPARED to accept the position so often shared from the Moscow radio, claiming the right to have friendly relationships with their near neighbors—I am not criminal if I ask to make good relationships with neighbors bordering on the British frontier. I am doing nothing to injure anybody, and I am not prepared to accept that position from any other country in the world.

Bevin said Britain claimed the right to deal with France, Holland, Belgium, Scandinavia, or other countries which, however, would not comprise a western bloc for all purposes.

"I SAY I AM ENTITLED on behalf of the government to have good neighbors on my eastern flank as any other country is entitled to have good neighbors in its street," he said.

"You will probably think I am a little energetic about this, but I am a little resentful, and I think the nation will agree I am entitled to be."

Mr. Churchill said that if the United States was not going to make this knowledge available it would require a visit by Soviet specialists, engineers and scientists to the American atom arsenals.

"I TRUST we are not going to put pressure on the United States to adopt such a source," Churchill said. "I hope that we shall adhere to the policy laid down by President Truman to keep the knowledge and processes as a sacred trust—as a deposit held in trust for the world.

Mr. Churchill said that what the United States did not want to disclose was the practical production methods developed for producing atom bombs at enormous expense and on a gigantic scale.

HE SAID that such a declaration as Mr. Truman's Navy day speech would have prevented both the first and second world wars.

Mr. Churchill, leader of the opposition, opened debate in commons on foreign affairs.

"We stand by the United States in a connection which overrides all other considerations," Churchill said.

Although the government and opposition are divided by a "considerable and widening gulf" on domestic affairs, they still are united in foreign affairs, he said.

WHATEVER is decided about the atomic bomb, Churchill explained, "should be decided by parliaments and responsible governments and not by scientists—however eminent or ardent they might be."

"It is the profound desire of the house," Churchill said, "that those feelings of comradeship and friendship which have been developed between the British and the Russian peoples should not only be preserved but rapidly expanded."

He added that he had nothing but "great admiration for this truly great man, Marshal Stalin."

"EVEN," Mr. Churchill said, "as is not impossible, if we should develop strong differences on many aspects of policy, political or social or even as we think moral, with the Soviet government no state of mind must be allowed to occur in this country which ruptures or withers those great associations between two peoples which were our glory and safety in the last frightful convulsions."

Mr. Churchill said that Mr. Truman's Navy day speech had it been made between the First and Second World Wars, would have produced a league of nations strong enough to prevent the rearmament of Germany.

"THEREFORE," HE SAID, "I feel it is our duty today in a most definite manner to welcome the noble declaration made by the president of the United States and to make it plain that upon the principle set forth in the twelve articles which follow so closely upon those of the Atlantic charter we stand by the United States with a conviction which overrides all other considerations.

"I cannot bring myself to visualize another world war. It is a somber thought that as long as our new

Want British Ship Take Home Troops

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier said in the Commons yesterday he would ask the British ministry of war transport whether the liner Queen Elizabeth could on her return voyage to Britain take men who fought in the Canadian services but had homes in England and wished to return there.

Mr. Chevrier was replying to Percy Black (PC, Cumberland) who said Monday the liner had returned to Britain with empty berths and has asked what the government's policy was with respect to transportation for these troops.

The minister said the disposition of troops, particularly with regard to the Queen Elizabeth, was exclusively under the jurisdiction of the British ministry of war transport, and he suggested Mr. Black get in touch with the ministry's secretary in Montreal.

Mr. Black said he understood certain ships under Canadian jurisdiction were returning to Britain with empty berths.

Defence Minister Abbott replied that the one of these, the Lady Rodney, was under the Canadian Army so far as troops were concerned but the limited civilian accommodation aboard the vessel came under the British ministry.

Nationwide Strike Is Said Possibility

TORONTO, Nov. 7. — (CP) — A nationwide strike in sympathy with striking members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) at Windsor is "within the realms of possibility" but no Canadian Congress of Labor action on a national work stoppage will be taken as long as there is hope of settlement, Pat Conroy, secretary of the CCL said last night.

Mr. Conroy's statement followed a meeting yesterday of the national Ford strike committee of the CCL which issued a statement re-affirming full support for Ford workers, calling on the government to "remove any threat of police or military interference" and the fact that responsibility for settlement on the government and asking that Labor Minister Mitchell remain in Windsor until an agreement is reached.

street and Jasper avenue, a fairly heavy vote had been cast at the noon hour.

In the outlying districts an increased vote also was recorded, but the increase was not as marked as at some of the downtown polling stations.

No incidents were reported from any of the polls as the election arrangements made by George A. Docherty, acting city clerk and returning officer, proved satisfactory.

THE ELECTION machinery was working smoothly with all polls opened on time. The polls opened at 9 a.m. and will remain open until 8 p.m.

A feature of this election is the fact that the names of candidates have been omitted from the voters' lists will be permitted to swear-in their vote at the polls. They will have to be identified by a resident voter in the poll they desire to vote in.

There was no contest for the four vacancies on the separate school board, the retiring trustees all being returned by acclamation. They are: J. A. Gallant, T. Malone, J. O. Plon, and W. J. Wilde.

VOTING IN DOWNTOWN polls during the early morning was very light, with the heaviest casting their ballots at the Market Square poll, and about 10 at the poll at the IOOF hall, 103 street. The voting was equally slow at the polls at Christ church Parish hall, the Westminister Service Station, 115 street and Jasper avenue, while the Calder poll reported a heavier than usual early morning vote.

The Parkdale school poll and that at the Parkdale school both reported voting slow. Polling in North Edmonton also was light.

IT IS ANTICIPATED that a sharp step-up in the voting tempo will take place as the day progresses.

As usual in municipal elections, the fate of the aldermanic slate will take place between 5 p.m. and the closing of the polls, a veteran deputy returning officer stated.

Transfers will be issued on the street railway system to voters to enable them to travel to and from the polls to cast their ballots and then continue their journey home. The service will be good only in one direction.

Proposes Specific Name Canada King

By CHESTER BLOOM

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—Eugene Marquis, Liberal, Kamouraska, wants the title of King George VI changed to make it clear that he is separately king of the separate sections of the British Commonwealth.

The title Mr. Marquis would like King to assume is to add to the present title, "George VI, by the grace of God of Great Britain, Ireland, and the British Dominions beyond the seas, King, defender of the faith, Emperor of India," also the following words: "King of Canada, of Australia, of New Zealand, of South Africa and of the Irish Free State."

MR. MARQUIS has put a resolution to that effect on the order paper. It reads that the King's present "Royal style and titles do not sufficiently emphasize the constitutional position and sovereignty of Canada and of the other dominions."

The resolutions asks, therefore, that at the next conference of representatives of the United Kingdom and the dominions, Canada should request the conference to pass a a spokesman for the UFA gave The Bulletin the reasons for the decisions reached.

"IT IS RECOGNIZED freely by both UFA and AFU people that the big task before them is to give the greatest possible strength to the Canadian Federation of Agriculture because it is the wider field of the national policy that farmers' interests are chiefly found", he said.

"To make the federation effective through the active support of the men and women on the land, it needs a membership organization in addition to the farm cooperatives whose growing strength has made the federation a success throughout the Dominion. The conviction has grown in the past year that this need can only be met in Alberta by a recasting of the farm organization structure.

AS A RESULT of the meetings which have been held a plan has been produced to link up the two educational associations with the Federation of Agriculture. A meeting was arranged with the board of the Alberta section of the federation at which a committee representing all three organizations was set up. This joint committee met in Edmonton, Oct. 30 and prepared a resolution to be presented to the annual conventions of all three organizations in November, December and January. The resolution follows:

"WHEREAS, THE CANADIAN Federation of Agriculture is a national organization with a provincial unit in every province, and

"Whereas, in the interests of agriculture there should be only one farm organization in Alberta:

"Therefore be it resolved, that the Alberta Federation of Agriculture should be reorganized to provide for the merging of the United Farmers of Alberta and the Alberta Farmers' Union on the following principles:

1. Provide for the setting up of locals on a direct membership basis.

2. An annual convention composed of delegates of locals and affiliate organizations.

3. The direct membership organization to elect the majority of the board of directors.

4. To provide for a women's section.

5. To provide for a junior section.

6. The organization to be non-political".

Toronto Will Hire More Police to Cut Down Sex Crimes

TORONTO, Nov. 7.— (CP) — Toronto city council today authorized appropriation of $8,000 to hire 50 new policemen to help curb the number of "girls being assaulted every day of the week."

Mayor Robert Saunders told the Board he received complaints every day of girls being assaulted. Controller Stewart Smith said he doubted whether 50 would be enough since "there is a definite emergency with respect to police."

Await Agreement

Freedom of Air Over Canada Restricted for Time Being

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Until a method for international regulation of rates and frequencies on international air routes was accepted Canada was not prepared to concede general freedom of the air to other countries over Canadian territory, Reconstruction Minister Howe said yesterday in the Commons.

He asked the House to approve three of the international aviation agreements signed at Chicago last December and explained why the House was not being asked to approve the "Five Freedoms" international air transport agreement.

Support for the resolution came from the Progressive Conservative and CCF parties before John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) adjourned the debate so he might study the contents of Mr. Howe's statement.

FLAG COMMITTEE

When the House opened, Veterans' Minister Mackenzie announced establishment of a committee to choose a design for a national flag had been postponed because names of Progressive Conservative members for the committee had not been received.

After adjournment of the air agreement debate, the House began clause-by-clause study of a bill authorizing international and domestic expansion of Trans-Canada Air Lines.

At the night sitting, the TCA bill was passed on third reading after lengthy discussion over the various clauses.

Mr. Howe, in the thick of the hard bargaining between British and United States representatives at the Chicago conference and who worked to bring the two groups together, disclosed for the first time, officially, how the differences were narrowed down but not quite removed.

BELIEVE IN REGULATION

Canada, he said, both at the conference and now, still believed a system of regulating the rates charged by air lines and the number of planes they could fly on a given route was necessary to avoid international friction. Along with such a system should go agreement by all nations to concede others certain freedom of navigation over their territory.

There was no difficulty about the first two freedoms—to fly over and to land for gasoline or other service purposes. There was little difficulty over the next two—to carry traffic into and pick up traffic from another country. On the fifth freedom—to take traffic between a second and third country—there was difficulty.

Agreement was reached on a method of regulating rates and frequencies when a line gained freedoms with the "escalator clause" providing for increasing frequencies when a line gained more traffic. The United States wanted traffic carried under the fifth freedom also taken into account and Britain was opposed on the ground it would enable powerful air lines to take all local air traffic.

"This was a small difference," said Mr. Howe, "but the weariness arising out of a protracted and exhausting period of meetings at a time when weather and immediate surroundings were apt to add to the general restlessness, as well as other incidental difficulties, resulted in a cessation of attempts to bridge the gap.

CONTINUE STUDY

"Instead, the provisional international civil aviation organization has been directed to pursue study of the principles to be followed in establishing rates and services. I believe they will be successful."

While there was not general acceptance of Five Freedoms without regulation a Five Freedoms agreement was drawn up for those countries which wished to accept it. It has been accepted by nine governments.

Mr. Howe said Canada hoped all nations would accept the Five Freedoms when it has been possible to reach agreement on rates and services and Canadian efforts in the organization at Montreal would be directed to that end.

NOW IN EFFECT

Canada had accepted the Two Freedoms agreement and the house was asked to ratify it. Mr. Howe said the "first use of the Two Freedoms was when Trans-Canada Air Lines some months ago began to fly over American territory between Winnipeg and Toronto on occasions when the weather in Canadian territory north of the Great Lakes did not permit use of the Canadian route."

Mr. Knowles said his party would support the resolution and wished to commend the government for getting Canada into the field of international air agreements.

Plan Changes In Vets' Credit For Purchases

OTTAWA, Nov. 7—(CP)—The veterans committee of the Commons yesterday agreed that in buying furniture with his re-establishment credit the veteran should only have to put up 10 per cent of the purchase price from funds other than his credit.

The previous amount was one third. Thus now a veteran with a $600 credit could get it in full for furniture or household equipment by spending $60 of his own on that furniture or equipment.

F/L L. James Sinclair (L-Vancouver North) objected to a phrase proposed for the War Service Grants Act that said the re-establishment credit would be made available "when it is shown to the satisfaction of the minister that such credit is to be used for . . ."

NO LEGAL RIGHT

He thought this would leave no legal right for the department of veterans' affairs to pay the credit to a man like himself who might have already bought his furniture.

P. E. Wright (CCF-Melfort) urged that the credit be made available for a veteran wishing to buy co-operatively, say, a fishing boat. The department would have the right to decide whether the veteran was right or not.

Capt. John Probe (CCF-Regina) said only 15 veterans had been re-established in fishing up to Sept. 1. It had been suggested to him in Nova Scotia that a number of veterans be allowed to pool their resources to buy a corvette as a "mother" fishing ship.

This would not now be possible under the act.

W. H. Herridge (Ind. CCF-Kootenay West) said he knew a number of veterans in British Columbia who were anxious to form a co-operative for the purpose of lumbering.

Communists Claim Chiang Force Beaten

CHUNGKING, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Chinese Communists said today their forces had decisively defeated 70,000 government troops in fighting along the Peiping-Hankow railway during which they recaptured the rail Hopeh province junction of Tsehsien, Oct. 25.

The Communists said the government forces consisted of eight divisions, including three "equipped with American arms and noted for their combat powers."

THE COMMUNIST claims, if true, meant the movement of President Chiang Kai-shek's armies along the Peiping-Hankow railroad toward North China and Manchuria had been smashed.

The Communists said their "victory" over the government forces along the Peiping-Hankow railroad was secured against troops belonging to the 8th, 13th and 40th armies.

THE COMMUNISTS asserted that most of the Central Government troops involved capitulated with their arms. They said that high government officers who surrendered included Gen. Ma Fu Wu, deputy commander-in-chief of the 11th war zone, and Gen. Sung Yen-Tan, chief of staff of the 11th war zone.

Certain Trades Not Restricted For Veterans

By C. W. DINGWALL
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—There is no evidence that certain trades and professions are limiting the number of servicemen seeking entrance into their respective groups, officials of the government said when queried Tuesday, with regard to petitions drawn up by the Winnipeg district command of the Canadian Legion, to be presented to the Dominion government.

SPECIFIC PROFESSIONS mentioned by the Legion included those of law, medicine and chartered accountancy. H. W. Jamieson, superintendent of educational training for the veterans' affairs department, told The Bulletin that the only restriction so far as medicine and law was concerned was the availability of space in universities to train these men.

"There is no evidence, to my knowledge, that veterans are being restricted from entering the profession of chartered accountancy," he said. This was a matter that came under the provincial associations, he continued, and the only restriction was that the veterans have the necessary academic background.

"THOSE WHO DESIRE to become chartered accountants," he pointed out, "must have their senior matriculation." Then too, firms have to keep openings for apprentices who left their employ to go into the armed forces. The firms will be required to replace those men when they get their discharge, he added.

So far as trade unions are concerned, another official said that he has not heard of any case where limitations have been applied to the entry of veterans. He pointed out that the number of apprentices in any one trade is limited by provincial apprenticeship acts. These provincial acts specify the number of apprentices that can be taken into trades on a ratio basis to the number of journeymen. This ratio differs in each trade also, he added.

REFERRING to the Legion resolution that veterans be placed in suitable employment in line with their native or acquired abilities, it was pointed out by this official that this is the "whole object" of the government's guidance program. If a veteran desires to enter a profession that is best helped by going to school, he explained, then he is sent to the proper source for his education.

The vocational training branch also has a list of employers, he pointed out, and if a man wants to train for a certain job but can't get his education in a school, he is taken to one of these firms. A contract is drawn up, which is more "moral than legal" he said. The contract calls for a certain period of training at a wage that won't depress existing wage levels, he continued.

ALL DURING his training period, the veteran is paid approximately 80 per cent. of the wage set by regional or war labor board for that work. The firm figures out what the apprentice is worth to them and the government subsidize them for the difference between what the firm thinks the man is worth and the existing wage scales.

"If the veteran is a good man," continued the official, "the firms, in some cases, do not want the subsidy but pay the full amount themselves."

Absence "Mysterious"

Moscow Ceremonies Held Without Stalin

By HENRY SHAPIRO
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

MOSCOW, Nov. 7.—(BUP)—Surprise and disappointment swept Moscow today as Generalissimo Stalin remained mysteriously absent from the formal ceremonies marking the 28th anniversary of the Red revolution.

IT WAS THE FIRST time in many years that Moscow ushered in its state new year without Stalin. His failure to appear aroused widespread speculation in official quarters.

Muscovites had expected confidently to see Stalin and to hear his review of the year's achievements. Instead, the review was read off by Foreign Minister Molotov and the generalissimo's traditional order of the day to the Red Army was signed by Marshal Alexander Vasilevsky, acting for Stalin.

There was no official explanation for Stalin's non-appearance at the meeting of the Supreme Soviet yesterday and at this morning's mammoth military reviews in Red Square.

VASILEVSKY INDICATED just before the start of the review that Stalin would not attend today's ceremonies, and informed sources believed some last-minute development had caused the premier to change his plans.

Also conspicuously absent were such top figures as President Mikhail Kalinin and Marshal Voroshilov and Zhukov.

Gen. Alexei I. Antonov, Soviet chief of staff, substituted for Stalin at the review.

"THE RED ARMY has stood and will continue to stand in the front ranks of the armies of the United Nations in defence of the peace and security of the peoples of the democratic countries," Antonov said in his address to the troops.

49th Association To Name Officers

Dead and Injured In Crash Named

Names of personnel killed and injured in the crash of an American C-54 four-engined plane near Anchorage, Alaska, last week, were released Wednesday. The dead: Lt. Nathaniel J. Crawford, Great Falls, Mont.; Lt. Vincent J. Colosimo, McKee's Rocks, Pa.; 2nd Lieut. Frank S. Warner, Cincinnati, Ohio. The injured: Pfc. S. Lefer, Edmonton, and S. Sgt. A. J. Capanella, Alaskan Division personnel.

Condition of the two injured men in hospital at Anchorage is reported to be favorable.

Cause of the crash is under investigation by authorities of the Alaskan Division and officials of the air base at Anchorage.

The plane had left Edmonton the afternoon before the crash on a regular scheduled flight to Fairbanks, Anchorage and Seattle.

The crash occurred in foothills country eight miles east of Anchorage as the aircraft was coming down for a landing at the Anchorage Airport.

What Are the Doors For?

London bus conductors and conductorettes have drawn the line. They won't allow passengers to stand in the aisles any more; just chase the surplus off the wagon when the seats are all full. The why of it is not explained in the despatches. Maybe they just don't want to be crowded and tramped on. Maybe they are trying to force the management to put on more busses—and make more jobs.

Habits tend to spread, but let us hope this particular one doesn't spread to Edmonton. If the street car men here adopted the "no standing" rule there is no telling what might happen. Most likely the uncounted throng in the aisle would gang up on the motorman and tell him to try to put them off. Edmonton cars are crowded as badly as London busses can ever have been.

So badly that the superintendent of the system is appealing to afternoon shoppers to please get on the home-bound cars by four o'clock. Thus far with only measureable success. He deserves a better response, for the packing-in is terrible at the rush hours.

Not only terribly uncomfortable while the car is moving, but worse when it slows down for a stop and people in the rear have to fight their way to the front end to get off. The crush then is like a scrimmage on a football field.

It would help very much if conductorettes were restored to the cars on the down town sections, for these could let passengers off through the rear doors. That wouldn't stop the congestion at rush hours, but it would ease the escape from it.

Maybe He'll Change This

Asked by a United States senator for a message to that country, Marshal Stalin said: "Just judge the Soviet Union objectively. Do not either praise us or scold us. Just know us and judge us as we are and base your estimate of us upon facts and not upon rumors."

This is something more than an appeal to common sense. It is a plea for fairness. Russia, above every other country, is entitled to be judged on a basis of facts, not upon hearsay or prejudice.

But such judgment is possible only if the facts are known, and the Soviet authorities do not permit them to be known. They admit only foreign correspondents who say satisfactory things. Others are allowed to see only what the officials want them to see. Their reports are strictly censored before they can be sent out of Russia. Obviously the world can never "know" Russia while these restrictions are maintained.

Perhaps Marshal Stalin intends to relax them? That inference is suggested by his plea for understanding based on facts. He knows as well as anyone that what he asks is impossible while the sources of information are kept closed. He must even be aware that keeping them closed is the best of all ways to make rumors and prejudice the groundwork of foreign opinion of the Soviet Union.

The War Is Over

Hon. Humphrey Mitchell thinks registration cards are so useful that every person in Canada should be made to carry one in peacetime. He says the cards help the police identify people, and help people to identify themselves at the liquor stores.

Unless he can think up something more important there is going to be a lot of trouble before Canadians are made to pack registration cards around in their pockets all the rest of their days. They are not used to being regimented and tagged and put on official records, like people in some European ballwick, and are not at all likely to get used to it, whoever may want them to.

In pre-war days the police were able to track down law-breakers with praiseworthy success, unaided by registration cards, and the liquor dispensers got along with equally conspicuous success. They will have to do so again. Canadians are not going to be reduced to the status of ticket-of-leave men to suit anybody.

If anyone wants to carry one of these cards for personal convenience or safety all well and good. But the war being over, the wartime compulsion is another necessary nor sensible and will not be tolerated. This is Canada, not one of the Balkan states where every person is presumed to be a proper subject for police surveillance.

V

Why Plug the Gaps?

United States officials at the Washington loan conference are said to have about given up hope that they can wreck the imperial preference system under which the British nations trade with each other at reduced tariff rates. Why they should ever have wanted to wreck it is a mystery, unless they are doing their thinking in the depression-producing logic of twenty years ago.

If the British nations cancelled these preferential tariffs, their regular customs rates would come into effect against each other. The net result would be that the few partial gaps which have been punched in the world's Haman's gallows tariff structure would be closed. That is certainly not the way to promote international trade, which the United States will have to promote as actively as any other country if it is to escape another stroke of economic paralysis.

Nothing but all-round lower tariffs can permit the interchange of products which the highly industrialized countries must have if they are to sell their war-expanded products. And nothing else can distribute the blessings of invention and enterprise so widely among the peoples of the world as to establish a solid material basis for peace. Either the nations will trade more freely or they will fight. To that view Washington subscribed definitely, and almost aggressively, during the war years.

Plugging the breaches which have been made in the trade-strangling barriers erected in the Hawley-Smoot era of tariff-making would not cause this freer flow of trade between nations. Precisely the contrary. The United States can strengthen the trade stimulating influence of the imperial preferential system by cutting its own customs duties. It has already done that in degree, but only in degree.

That way lies the hope of making peacetime trade as universally profitable that war-makers will not get a hearing when they propose to put an end to it by starting another riot of destruction.

V

Japanese authorities say that 17 per cent of all the industrial plants in Japan were demolished or burned by air attacks. Japan, it is pertinent to note, is a country without timber. It is not likely to get any from Canada or other producing countries, for more than one reason. The housing problem there is probably more baffling than anywhere else on earth.

V

Riots in Jerusalem were promptly answered by riots in Cairo. More disorder in either Palestine or Arab states will mean more disorder in response. human reactions in both areas being inevitable. This acute racial problem is obviously one which could be handled with better prospects of a peaceful arrangement if the handling were done by the United Nations. Britain might well invite its allies to take a share of the responsibility. They could hardly refuse.

It seems those sun spots have come back again, or started exploding again, or whatever it is that they do periodically. Wherefore a lynx-eyed observer says we are in for four or five cold winters. Not in Alberta or in Canada only, or particularly, but all over this ray-bombarded world. Spots on the sun, he explains, cause clouds to envelope the earth. these shut off the warming rays from the fiery orb, and cold weather, or colder than usual weather, is the end result. Well, from the Edmonton view point just at present it looks as though he may be right.

Atomic Science Should be Barred From Warfare and—

Released for Creative Energy

Work of Scientists Is a Sacred Trust for Humanity and Never Again Should Atomic Bombs be Used for Destruction, Lest Human Race Perish From the Earth.

By Dorothy Thompson

If the British prime minister is coming to the United States to ask Mr. Truman to give the atomic bomb to the "security council" of UNO, he is coming in vain. Mr. Truman can't give it, because it is not his to give. The atomic bombs on hand, the formulas and equipment for their manufacture belong to the American people. They were given us by international science, which chose to repose this most dangerous of discoveries in the western world.

Dorothy Thompson

Niels Bohr, Lise Meitner, Albert Einstein, Dr. Victor Weisskopf, Enrico Fermi, Professor James Franck, Dr. Leo Szilard and many others, could have chosen to take their brains from the Axis countries to the Soviet Union. They didn't. They brought them to England and America.

What they have given us, developed with our own wealth, is a sacred trust for all mankind. They are not asking us to do is to devise means whereby atomic science will never again be employed for destruction. What they are warning us is that if its use is not abolished, the world faces the possibility that two-thirds of the inhabitants may perish. They ask that atomic science be barred from warfare and released for creative energy. That is what we should employ all our might to do.

Giving the atomic bomb to the Security Council means giving it to five great powers, none of which has been willing to accept any restrictions, or external judgments, even if all others are unanimous each insisting on being a law unto itself. Thus, the idea that if the war departments of Britain, France, China, the Soviet Union and the United States, all have a nice supply of atomic bombs, peace and good will between us will be the much nearer is worthy of a meeting of the best minds of Bellevue's wards. Atomic bombs distributed to the air arsenals of the globe would, of course, bring the end of this planet nearer. That would, indeed, be peace on earth.

Given universal possession of the weapon each general staff would make the strategy of war plan which any war college could make under such circumstances—how to jump a potential enemy first.

Certainly the world has least to fear from powers with representative governments which cannot make undeclared wars.

There is something sinister in this international scramble after the atomic bomb. Russia and the Soviet Union did not have it, passed her a wonderful opportunity for moral leadership when she proposed a call for immediate international abolition, under international control, of atomic weapons, and, progressively, of V-Weapons, bombing planes, and inspection and control of other instruments of warfare which make possible blitz extermination of great population centres inhabited, for the most part, by the proletariat.

But no. I do not know whether Mr. Byrnes reads regularly the communist Daily Worker, but he doesn't, he should. Maybe the comintern has been dissolved, but then there is no lack of evidence of thought between the communist press from Moscow to New York, and from London to Paris and Rome.

The communist press bitterly criticizes our handling of the atomic bomb. But is asking for the abolition of atomic warfare? Is it promoting a strengthening of UNO through restriction on the war-making powers of all nations, great and small? Is it backing up the scientists' demand for genuine world-wide prohibition and inspection of uranium mines and laboratories and the diversion of atomic science to experiments in its constructive use? Is it applauding Einstein's plea? Not at all.

Those who want to strengthen UNO by a new international law to which all nations must be subject and by a genuine international police to enforce that law are accused of trying to destroy the peace.

As in 1942 and '43 the Communist world press was crying in repetitive clague for a second front in Europe, regardless of the warnings of the western military that an ill-prepared invasion would be disastrous; so now, not a single consideration of American security interests it it wants atomic bombs for Russia with no strings attached while it uses the world "Fascist" to describe American policy, and speaks of "American Imperialism"

One Time Darling of Management—

The Foreman Goes Union

Wants Same Right as Men He Bosses to Form Own Organization and Bargain Collectively With Employers on Job, Conditions and Grievance Procedure.

By Stanley C. Gartenhaus in The New Republic

The one-time darling of American management—the foreman—has begun to bite the hand that has been feeding him for more than 25 years. Big business long used the foreman in its fight against the union efforts of rank-and-file workers. Now the foreman is coming to recognize the value of organized demand for himself. He is finding management is finding it hard to believe that its former favorite has decided to don a union button of his own.

Adding fuel to management's vexation, the National Labor Relations Board has extended to foremen the legal right to join a union in the recent Packard Motor Company case. The automobile industry, via General Motors, kicked off in the National Association of Manufacturers—quickly took up arms against the NLRB ruling in a series of full-page advertisements in newspapers and magazines from coast to coast.

The ads headlined the misleading question, "Should management be unionized?" The answer is: has only served to befuddle the issue for the public. Actually, management is not being unionized, because foremen today are not "management" in the sense of two decades ago. Then, a foreman was a boss with full power to hire, fire, promote, demote and discipline his workers. Today, he only recommends these things to the personnel department—often futilely.

Further proof that the foreman is not "management" can be shown by the changes that have taken place among foremen, as a class. For many years after World War I, foremen were urged, and frequently willing union-busters. This antiunion attitude stemmed partly from the fact that they were never better treated than those under them. But industry failed to hold the foreman's loyalty because it progressively neglected his working conditions, overburdening him and, worse still, turning a deaf ear to his complaints. Even though it was a combination of frustration and jealously that kept foremen in the management camp, industry was not long before foremen began to look with frank envy at such union achievements as overtime pay, seniority rights, vacation pay, sickness and accident benefits, equal jobs and, most important—grievance procedure.

These gradually became their own ideals for job conditions, and this was evidenced by a minor flow of foremen back to the rank-and-file jobs where security and standards were still a sign unwisely ignored by industry.

Finally, the hasty swing into defence and war production that began in 1940 found industry less inclined than ever to deal with the foreman's personal problems of wages, status and grievances. Indeed, until very recently, he was the forgotten darling of American business. Now he is no longer forgotten—a number of foremen's union work stoppages since 1943 have seen to that.

Why did they strike? Basically they wanted the right to join a union and bargain collectively with their employers on the conditions under which they work. They have won that right legally. But American management on the whole is opposed in principle to bargaining with foremen's unions. It insists that foremen are a part of management and therefore have no right to join a union. It reats its argument on its own interpretation of the word "employee." Only employees are protected by the Wagner Act and, as industry views it, foremen are not employees.

This view is precisely the one which the NLRB has just declared invalid, since the nature of the foreman's status in modern industry can no longer be considered other than that of an employee. The board found that the foreman no longer has any genuine management powers or prerogatives.

Foremen's unions are not new, although the rapidity with which the current membership drives are being conducted is unparalleled. The immediate goal is to persuade the three million foremen in the mass-production industries. At present there are 15 foremen's unions of supervisory unions which were organized before 1935.

Since 1935 only a few foremen's unions have developed, of which one is the independent Wright Aircraft Supervision association. Three others are affiliated, two each with the CIO, the AFL and the United Mine Workers. The fifth and largest is the independent Foremen's Association of America.

The seeds of the FAA were sown in August, 1941, by a disgruntled foreman, Robert Howard Keys, at Ford's Detroit plant. By the end of the year, several thousand Ford plant supervisors had joined. The first test of FAA strength came in mid-1942. A foreman presented a grievance on behalf of another supervisor and was discharged. Two hundred foremen made a vigorous protest and, in the face of their usual, discharged the entire protesting group.

But when Keys threatened to pull out the total membership, Ford recognized the power of the FAA and took two FAA men as foreman supervisors. Ford signed an ultra-liberal agreement with the FAA on gain of a 24-hour total-strike notice.

From then on, the growth of the association under Keys' stewardship has been little less than amazing. By the end of 1944, the foremen of some 175 other manufacturing establishments had joined the ranks and the FAA now boasts 25,000 dues-paying members.

The sidesshow battle between the management and foremen of 13 of America's largest manufacturers—in the auto industry—was conducted before a special WLB panel headed by Sumner H. Slichter of Harvard.

in verbiage almost identical with that of Dr. Goebbels.

Universal peacetime service for American citizens is attacked as a warlike act, and as the foundation of American imperialism, not American defense. But nowhere do the Communists press for the universal abolition of conscription.

The peaceful conscription of the Soviet Union, which has been a feature of Soviet life for a quarter-century, is entirely for defense; entirely for defense is the creation of a new Polish army of half a million, armed, commanded, and politically commissared by Russians or Russian-trained Poles; entirely for defense the new Jugoslav army, of half a million, commanded by a years' long Russian agent; entirely for defense the new Czech legions armed and equipped by the Russians, meshed in with their military system, and supervised by political commissars; entirely for defense the transfer of every bit of armament machinery and equipment from Germany to Russia; entirely for defense the exclusive Russian control of the great heavy industry of Silesia; entirely for defense the proposal that the only other great heavy industry of Europe, the Ruhr, should be internationalized with Russian participation—though the Western Allies may not participate in control of the Silesian industry.

Entirely for aggression are all other armies and armaments, wherever they may be—all leading to the logical conclusion that the United States is a potential aggressor, who should—according to international agreements—be struck in its nefarious Fascistic purposes before it strikes first. Meanwhile, Russia must get the atomic bomb.

This column has never accepted the doctrine of the "enforcement of peace" as set forth in the arguments for the San Francisco charter. It holds for unlimited functions on war-making powers, on all nations including the United States. It holds for strict reciprocity. The propaganda that monstrous armaments for one power are "peace loving" and "defensive" and for another are Fascistic, war mongering, and aggressive, is obviously insincere and fraudulent, if not conspiratoral, criminal, and treasonable.

Pensions for Widows

Editor, Bulletin: It's really time something was done to improve our old age pensions. Children's allowances do need to be increased and settled although not asked for nor required, and the old folks who have to do need to wait until 70 years of age.

I suggest to grant women 60 years of age and men the old age pension, especially widows who are alone, and too old to start out to work, and not able to, and not working.

High Wages

Editor, Bulletin: One thing seems to be overlooked by those who are timorous of labor leaders' demands for higher wages. Don't they realize that higher wages and better production go hand in hand, just as a well-kept machine gives more production than a rundown machine. Profits increase with higher wages. A decent minimum wage standard is not going to affect prices one jota anywhere in Canada.

The pre-war wage standards created sales and unemployment and misery. Industry needs a better living wage to prevent destructive competition. Managements should not compete at the expense of human blood and sweat. A decent minimum wage will force management to compete on the basis of who can run the most efficient plant rather than who can run the worst sweat shop. The low wage worker is the substandard citizen, a liability to the community because he consumes a disproportionate share of public expenditures.

Curfew for Children

Editor Bulletin: Why should there be any hesitation about putting into effect a curfew to keep children off the streets at night? A strange feeling takes possession of me when I hear a child's voice outside at nightfall. I can not conceive an excuse for juveniles being permitted to frequent the public thoroughfares in the darkness of night. If a curfew be decided on then let everyone who loves children and who finds them where they are in danger do it his or her duty to direct their steps homeward.

Fatal Handicap

Editor, Bulletin: We have got to get together on this subject. Every excuse they are making to us. I have been out of work for two and a half months and my application for work is answered with "too old," claiming that their group insurance will not allow them to hire anyone over 35 years of age. Also they claim they can get boys of 16 to work on their work for 25c to 30c an hour. Another thing that has to be looked into is "part time jobs," which I consider a cheap racket. I cannot take a part time job unless I already have a full time job. I am married, have a wife and young daughter depending on me. I am 58 years old. Am I supposed to grow long whiskers, put on dark glasses and stand on some street corner with a tin cup in my hand waiting for pennies to be dropped in it?

THE UNSEEN AUDIENCE

Mountbatten Explains Position of—

Britain In Java

Political Dispute No Affair of British or Indians Who Are Only Liberating Allied Prisoners and Keeping Order.

By Wing Cmdr. Charles Gardner

LONDON.—The supreme commander in southeast Asia, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, this week issued a full statement on Java. In this statement underlines the difficulties in the occupation of the territories in the southeast Asia command area and explains how the present complicated position arose—and how it is being dealt with.

Admiral Mountbatten's statement lets a cooling draught of common sense play on the heated controversies which have surrounded the Allied handling of the Japanese and Indonesians in Java.

At the time of the Japanese surrender SEAC forces found themselves responsible, not only for Malaya, Siam, Burma, Sumatra and Andaman and the Nicobar Islands, but for Java, French Indo-China and Hong Kong—the latter three areas having been transferred to SEAC just as the surrender went through. This meant that troops, shipping and air transport had to be provided for these extra territories at a time when SEAC already had the gigantic task of disarmament, occupation and the rescue of prisoners in its main areas of Burma, Malaya, Siam and Sumatra.

As one example of this added strain upon Allied resources, the taking over of Java meant minesweeping operations down to Batavia and Sourabaya, using every available minesweeper in the command. All told, there were 250 RAF Japanese to disarm in SEAC's now enlarged domain, and over 100,000 prisoners to rescue and evacuate. So far by using every available ship, transport aircraft and RAF bomber Admiral Mountbatten has been able to move 300,000 SEAC troops to police the liberated areas and has brought back 80,000 liberated prisoners of war. As far as Java is concerned, the speed with which troops could be taken there was governed by the speed with which minesweepers could sweep a channel. Other factors were the absolute necessity of occupying Japanese supreme headquarters at Saigon and the release of over 50,000 Allied prisoners in Siam, Malaya and French Indo-China.

In spite of all these demands the Allied Naval Squadron arrived at Batavia on September 15, three days after the surrender of Singapore, and on September 28 Allied land forces began landing in Java. With them went Lt.-Gen. Sir Philip Christison whose duties were: first, to disarm and deport the Japanese, second, to repatriate Allied prisoners of war, and third, to rescue civilian internees. To do this Christison occupied the key points, but he was not authorized to interfere in the internal political situation.

In the event, however, he could not possibly have been made responsible for maintaining a public order throughout Java with the forces at his disposal. All told he had an area twice the size of the British Isles with a larger population, and much worse communications and so the co-operation of the Indonesians themselves had to be assured. It was this basic situation which was gravely complicated by the Indonesian Nationalist movement and by its attitude towards the resumption of Netherlands' sovereignty. The Indonesian Independence movement proclaimed a republic in Java on August 17, that is, before the Allied troops got there. General Christison on his arrival found the island was in the hands of the Indonesians and its administration was reported to be a self-styled Republican Government under Doctor Soekarno. The Indonesians had de facto possession of the island on which there were nearly 125,000 civilian internees, 35,000 Dutch police had been for the great majority of these to resume their previous occupations in the Netherlands East Indies, but in view of the political difficulties this has so far been impossible. Since there is nowhere to put internees in safety it has also therefore been necessary to leave most of them temporarily in internment areas. Admiral Mountbatten has directed British and Indian troops to be responsible for their safety.

All possible steps are being taken for the liberation and care of Allied prisoners and internees and for the repatriation of public servants. It has however been unavoidable that the disarmament of Japanese troops should have been given priority. Every available ship and aircraft in the command has been working practically non-stop since the surrender, and if the Japanese were disarmed there would not be immediately available shipping for their necessary repatriation, nor that there are Allied troops to guard them. It must be remembered, too, that Admiral Mountbatten is facing a somewhat similar position in French Indo-China where there are enormous demands on manpower and shipping.

It is clear that the key to both problems is in the availability of transport and the number of troops which can be transported to both centres of trouble. The more and more Allied troops are coming in to Java and this means that the building up of Dutch interners will from now on proceed faster and faster. As more Allied men arrive so the Japanese can be disarmed and removed from the scene of their crimes. It will shortly be possible to increase the numbers of Dutch troops in Java and this will enable the Dutch to take over their own areas and settle the political dispute, which is no affair of the British or Indians.

Meanwhile, Admiral Mountbatten reports that the men have accomplished with willingness, courage and efficiency all that has been asked of them and are labouring with exemplary forebearance in extremely difficult circumstances.

Wainwright Begins Three Cruel Years As War Prisoner

His Days as a Hostage Over, the Hero of Corregidor Is Moved to a Jap Prison—And Faces New Privations

In chapter 26 of his memoirs, Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright tells of the end of his career as a hostage, and the beginning of more than three cruel years of life as a prisoner-of-war.—EDITOR.

After the criminal refusal of my Jap captors to send a message for me to President Roosevelt, appealing for food for my starving men I was convinced that, with possibly one exception, no Jap was even a reasonable facsimile of a human being. The exception was a lieutenant named Kusomoto who was serving as a kind of superintendent of the made-over University Club at Manila. He had been a discus thrower on the 1932 Japanese Olympic team which had competed in Los Angeles.

Probably at some risk to himself he sent out and bought cigarettes for us on two occasions. With some pesos I gave him, he also bought me a small electric plate and a little coffee pot in which we carefully brewed the ever-diminishing coffee which Sgt. Hubert Carroll had rescued from Corregidor.

And so went our Manila stay until the morning of June 9, 1942, when the cocky little Lt. Uramura entered my room and loudly read off a letter in Japanese from Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma's headquarters. Then he translated, and we learned that all organized resistance by my troops in the Philippines had ended.

"High command erases immediately," he said, looking at me. "You are now a prisoner-of-war. You and your staff officers will be transported today to a prison camp for senior officers at Tarlac."

The Japs had not left us much to pack, but we bundled what we had and were led down the street in front of the University club, where curious Filipinos gathered to stare at us.

BAGGAGE LOADED

Our baggage was thrown into a truck and we were thrushed into two cars. Driven out of the city and on highway No. 3, which leads toward Tarlac. It was another silent ride for we were not only passing through land we had fought for and lost, but I think all of us shared my feeling that it was going to be worse from now on.

The land of Luzon clearly showed the heavy hand of war. As we drove through the town of Angeles I was shocked at the destruction of what had been a pretty little settlement. We had left it unbuched when we withdrew from it during our long trek from Lingayen. The Nip Corregidor must have been heavily bombed after our troops departed.

We arrived at Tarlac at 3 p.m. that day 9, and found it an demoloshed as Angeles. We found also that we would not be alone. Senior officers from Camp O'Donnell and Bilibid prison had moved into our new prison before us, including, Maj. Gen. George F. Moore.

EACH GIVEN COT

The barracks to which we were assigned had once housed 80 Philippine Army trainees. But the Japs put 180 of us in here. The general officers were each given a cot, with the heads against a wall and the sides so close to one another that we had to crawl in over the foot. Officers below the rank of general were assigned to wooden, double-decked bunks on which there were, of course, no springs or mattresses. They gave us no blankets. I had two with me, and I gave one to Brig. Gen. Lewis Beebe.

The cots and bunks were on the second floor of the little building. Downstairs was a small mess and two smaller rooms, one of which we turned into a hospital to care for the ailing men from O'Donnell. The plumbingless latrine was in the yard near the barracks, but in time we built another farther from the barracks.

We soon were told that we were not to consider ourselves the equal of any of our captors. We had with us two Japanese-speaking officers, Col. Wood, who had been stranded in Mindanao when the navy plane that was taking him to Australia was wrecked, and Col. Robert Hoffman. It was to these two officers that the Japs gave the first instructions bordering on our future conduct. They spread the evil word.

REQUIRED TO BOW

If hatless, we were required to bow to any passing Jap soldier, regardless of his rank or yours. If we were wearing hats we were to salute all Jap soldiers, and always had to stand at attention when one entered the barracks.

I got my first lesson in bowing from a Jap sergeant. I can still feel the welt to relish that I felt when I first was forced to do it.

The food at Tarlac was much worse than at Manila. Our diet consisted principally of rice, with an ounce or two of either pork or beef thrown in once every week or two. It was not nearly enough food to restore the health of men already weakened by the privations of Bataan and Corregidor and subsequent imprisonment.

It is difficult for a wheat-eating people to change to rice as a staple food. A man's whole digestive system undergoes radical change. All of us suffered badly from diarrhea.

GET ADDITIONAL FOOD

But we were able finally to persuade the Jap officer in charge of our camp to permit us to buy additional food and supplies with what money we had. The Tarlac region had been well stripped of many needed commodities, but we were able on rare occasions to augment our starvation rations with tiny and insufficient purchases of bananas, canned milk, sugar, native beans and native candies. We also set up a kind of poor man's PX whose empty shelf was occasionally stocked with a few packages of Filipino cigarettes and bars of carabao soap.

It seemed, and was, pathetic fare. Yet later we were to look back on it, and on Tarlac itself, as paradise.

We were required to do our own little housework at Tarlac, such as making our beds, if we had any bed-clothing to straighten and sweeping. Many of the officers were next to barefooted, but despite many appeals we got no shoes. Instead, we lost some of our remaining belongings. The last piece of military equipment I had, my flashlight, was taken away from me in an early investigation of my luggage. Our uniforms by this time were not worth stealing.

We were able to keep cleanshaven, however, which gave us a smattering of military bearing. A Filipino barber, Moore's staff had managed somehow to hold on to his razor sharpener. He kept every blade in camp in more or less good condition. The only razor which Gen. MacArthur had given me the day I said goodbye to him on Corregidor also was parcelled out in small dabs to those who had no such luxury.

QUESTIONS DIMINISHED

But, at least, the volume of the Jap questioning diminished at Tarlac. They made several more stabs at learning where our silver had been deposited in Manila Bay and —I learned later—got such vague and misleading answers that they wasted weeks dragging the bottom of the bay for fame where the $15,000,000 actually was.

Soon their questions, especially the military ones, became more expository than curious. In interrogating me on my tactical maneuvers on Bataan the Jap officers seemed mainly to be trying to say that their Jap army tactics were superior. They did give me some trouble, however, in trying to learn how I was able to know so many of their plans in advance. Naturally, I never revealed to them that much advance information had come to me by radio from a Philippine officer in Manila.

They said through their questions, too, that they were confident of victory in the Pacific war. It was tormenting to hear them tell of further Jap conquests, for we had no news from the outside world, no papers, radio, letters . . . nothing.

EXPECTED U.S. DEFEAT

"You'll be home by Christmas," one of them said to me one day in Tarlac in July, 1942. "Your country cannot stay in the war much longer."

I am sure that he believed sincerely in what he was saying. The younger Jap officers and enlisted men were plainly confident by the summer of '42 that America would sue for peace.

Want Vets to Take Packing House Jobs

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—A program to educate veterans in the possibilities of employment in meat packing houses, woods operations, sawmills, coal and gold mining, foundries and other industries has been launched by the government, the labor department said yesterday in re-emphasizing that there are plenty of jobs going begging" in those lines to work. In a statement, it said misapprehension as to pay and working conditions slowed the influx of workers into those industries. Both were "better than ever before and these rates will continue to be maintained for a very considerable time to come."

Winnipeg Robbers Get $17,550 Haul

WINNIPEG, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Robbers found a surprise package in the suburban Fort Garry home of Joseph Cappan, a railway coach cleaner. Hanging on a nail on the kitchen wall they found a woman's black shopping bag with more than $17,550 in negotiable stocks and bonds, including Victory bonds valued at $12,750.

More Goods Available

1945 Christmas to Resemble Pre-War Yuletide Seasons

By P. W. DEMPSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—Christmas in 1945 will in many ways resemble the Yuletide seasons of pre-war days, with more food, toys and decorations available than at any time since Canada was plunged into the war.

This change is due of course to the cessation of hostilities. The labor situation has improved considerably, with large numbers of men and women formerly employed in war plants now being available for civilian work. There are increased quantities of metal, lumber, paper, board and other materials at the disposal of manufacturers.

In addition, turkey and chicken supplies will be as good as a year ago, if not better, and such trimmings as cranberries, fruit, juices, mincemeat, olives and peanuts will be available in larger quantities than during wartime Christmases.

MORE, BETTER TOYS

Some 6,000 toys are listed with the toy administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and improvements in the majority of these lines are expected. The more elaborate metal toys are not likely to be on the market before Christmas, but there will be a better selection than for a long time. Mechanical and electrical trains, missing from the shelves of toy shops for several years, will be available in small quantities.

Games of every conceivable type and for all ages will again make their appearance. Plastic toys—doll houses, telephones, airplanes, autos—will be ready for the market in large numbers.

Agriculture departments officials announce that reports from across Canada reveal that farmers and other poultry have not dropped in production but the demand for them is likely to be greater. Overseas shipments to the devastated countries is primarily the reason for the greater demand.

CANDY STILL SHORT

Cranberries will be easy to get, also mincemeat, fruit and various kinds of nuts. Peanuts, almonds and pecans will be available in ample quantities, but it will be difficult to obtain walnuts and filberts.

Because of the sugar scarcity, Christmas candy and chocolates will continue in short supply. There will be an improvement, however, in the variety of Christmas cookies on the market.

Since 1939, a prosperous Christmas decoration industry has sprung up in Canada, which formerly imported nearly everything from Europe and the United States. This industry is being further developed, with the result that there will be no shortage of spun glass balls, real pine cones, supplies of paper bells and bright ropes, multi-colored tissue paper, and fancy ribbons.

Christmas tree lights, too, will be more readily available, although manufacturers may not be able to fill all demands that are expected.

Desjarlais

A large gathering attended a meeting and dance sponsored last week by the local community club when William Tomyn, M.L.A. made the presentation of an award to William Strydnadka of Field, B.C. Mr. Strydnadka, former ferryman here, received an honorary testimonial of the Royal Canadian Humane Association of Hamilton, Ont., for rescuing John Kozocari from drowning in the North Saskatchewan river July 14, 1944. Also participating in the ceremonies were N. S. Shewchuk and S. D. Samoil.

Dismiss Appeal Of Death Sentence

VANCOUVER, Nov. 7.—(CP)—The British Columbia Court of Appeal yesterday dismissed the appeal of Alex Prince, 22-year-old Indian sentenced to hang Nov. 29 for the murder of Eugene Measnor, northland trapper, early in 1944. Dr. William J. MacKenzie, physician and surgeon at Dakalla jail, told the court Prince has the mentality of a nine-year-old and does not appreciate the consequences of his act. Crown counsel read a statement by Dr. J. G. McKay, psychiatrist, saying Prince is mentally competent.

District News in Brief

Suffer Heavy Loss Of Rationed Sugar

DUFFIELD—A heavy loss in these days of sugar rationing was suffered by Hill Henkel and family last week when 40 quarts of preserved fruit was missing, believed stolen, from his home. Entry to the dwelling was apparently made through a basement window.

Millet

The Wiesenthal Church is having a series of meetings, beginning Nov. 5, for a week, when the "Dalzelle Party" internationally-known musical evangelists, will be present.

Word has been received by Mrs. R. E. Montgomery that her brother, WO. Ash of Viking, who is serving overseas with the RCAF has been awarded the DFC.

The Weisenthal WI held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. F. C. Hall. This institute has completed the making of seven ditty bags for the Navy League. Sufficient quilt strips were handed in to make a quilt which will be completed at once. A cushion which was sold for funds for the Institute Christmas Omelet Fund was drawn by A. B. Maine of Millet. Arrangements were completed for a bingo party and pie social which will be held Nov. 14 at the Wiesenthal school.

Gordon Pettigrew, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Pettigrew left last week for the east to go in training for the permanent navy. He enlisted in Edmonton, and prior to enlistment has been a member of the Millet Sea Cadets. He has one brother serving in the RCNVR and a brother in the Canadian army overseas.

A. E. Nelson has received his discharge from the RCAF and at present is on his father's farm. Alvin O. Berg has received his discharge from the RCAF and is spending a short time at the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Anderson.

Fort Assiniboine

Search for Gustave Strand, retired farmer who disappeared from his home more than a week ago, has failed to locate any sign of him. The search is continuing under RCMP supervision.

Gordon Culver is operating the Fort Assiniboine bus in the absence of the regular driver, Marlin Strand, who is assisting in the search for his uncle.

A Hallowe'en party was held recently by students at the Fort Assiniboine school. Those participating in the program of entertainment were Margaret Culver, Marlene McArthur, Shirley Comlee, Elsie Swarg, Gertrude Nickason, Wanda LaBarge, Byron Culver, Earl and Percy Nickason, Lorraine, Francis and Mickey Thomson, Barry Culver, Betty Copey and others.

Clive

A capacity audience filled the Clive community hall when a Welcome Home party was held in honor of several Clive and district men who have recently returned from overseas.

Mrs. Frank Cripps was chairman for a program of vocal and instrumental selections. Presentation of a gift to each of the guests of honor from the people of the community was made by the mayor, W. B. Johnson, and later a lunch was served by members of the Welcome Home club.

A thousand pounds of used clothing was collected and shipped from here during the recent clothing drive.

F.O. Jack Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Wilson, formerly of Clive and now residing in Edmonton, has received his discharge from the RCAF and is teaching at the Canadian Vocational Training School in Edmonton.

Faust

F. L. Pruden and family have left for Vancouver where they plan to spend the winter. Cpl. Arthur Swanson is in Vancouver at present.

Pte. Max Morgan of Jonssard is renewing acquaintances here after returning from duties overseas. Mrs. Rose Sandman, Navy veteran, is now in Faust. Bill Thompson was a recent Edmonton visitor.

Mrs. Alex Mallette, nee Evelyn Hall, was honored at a shower this week when she was presented with numerous gifts. Miss A. Fulton of Slave Lake spent the week-end with Miss M. Stockford.

Faust-Kinuso ATA sub-local has elected the following officers: president, Mrs. C. Bannister, vice-president, Miss R. Robbin; secretary, Miss M. Walsh.

Ferintosh

George Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Campbell, Joel Campbell, Miss Grace Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Borgstrom and David Borgstrom motored to Kingman, to represent at the shower and farewell given Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Campbell who were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. Simonson. The groom recently returned from overseas where he was a signalman with the Royal Canadian Artillery. He has purchased a half-section in the Central Valley district.

Recent returnees to Ferintosh include LAC Herbert Falk and Sapper James Barry.

Parcels were packed for Christmas delivery overseas at a tea at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Elden Coen, by the Central Valley Comfort Club Friday.

Stettler

Sheridan Clark and Miss June Clark, both of Edmonton, were week-end guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Clark.

Stettler high school Students' Union has elected the following executive: President, D. Thomas; vice-president, G. Hart; secretary, J. Somerville; treasurer, N. Johnson.

Mrs. W. W. Sharpe left last week for a visit to Toronto and Halifax. She was accompanied as far as Calgary by her husband, Mrs. R. L. Patrick left this week for the Pacific coast. Mrs. J. Martin of Sylvan Lake is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Vic Sturgeon. Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Lawrence of Pearl River are visiting their daughter, Mrs. C. A. Clarke and family.

Teachers of the local public and high schools attended the autumn convention of teachers in Red Deer this week. The ATA local elected the following officers: president, S. W. Hooper; vice-president, M. McLean; secretary, N. Muir.

Social hour was held at the close of the evening service at the United Church Sunday.

David Drinnan has been appointed secretary-treasurer for the Stettler school division.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Armstrong have received word that their son, Pte. Sgt. William Armstrong was buried in a cemetery in Northern France. He had been listed missing since July, 1943, following air operations over Europe.

Pig Shower Latest Honor For Veteran

DUFFIELD—Something new in "showers" took place here recently when relatives and friends of Heinie Henkel of Onoway tendered him a "pig shower." The veteran of long service overseas received five pigs, one goose and a gander, to be used as a start in stocking his farm.

Veteran

October meeting of the Altar Society was held at the home of Mrs. C. F. Long when members decided to hold the annual bazaar and supper in the Doyle building Nov. 10.

After spending the last four years in Ontario, Miss Dorothy Latimer is visiting her mother, Mrs. Mabel Latimer of Veteran.

The CGIT group met this week at the home of Miss Mavis Paulson. The hostess served lunch.

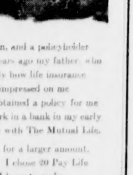
A person who is now 20 years old and who sleeps about eight hours each night, has 16 years of sleep ahead of him, if he lives to the age of 70.

Another policyholder reports . . .



"I AM A BANKER, the father of a son, and a policyholder in The Mutual Life of Canada. Many years ago my father who was also a banker, and who saw clearly how life insurance can benefit men and women in many ways, impressed on me the value of life insurance. He obtained a policy for me when I was a child, and when I started to work in a bank in my early twenties I purchased another $1,000 policy with The Mutual Life.

"WHEN I MARRIED I insured again, for a larger amount, to give my wife the protection she needed. I chose 20 Pay Life insurance, preferring that plan because I have to make only twenty payments of the same amount, during my best earning years, and then my insurance will be paid-up.

When I am ready to retire I can, if I wish, use the cash value of my insurance to purchase a monthly income.

"Now, from my own experience as a banker, I am realizing the wisdom of my father's advice and am teaching my son the value of life insurance."

Let a Mutual Life representative arrange your family insurance!

Wetaskiwin

In compliment to Dr. J. C. Shillabeer, resident of Wetaskiwin for 20 years, a smoker was held in the banquet room of the Dyrard hotel. Dr. and Mrs. Shillabeer are leaving this week to reside in Vancouver. At the reception, when about 100 friends assembled, many tributes were paid to the doctor. J. MacGregor was official host. Mayor C. D. Enman, on behalf of the guests, presented the doctor with a suitably engraved gift. Musical numbers by Maj. Norman White, Capt. Reg. Powers, A. Craig and Sgt. Cary were enjoyed.

The Rev. and Mrs. Willis A. Cann entertained about 100 guests in compliment to Dr. and Mrs. Shillabeer. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. J. MacGregor, Mrs. O. Massing, Mrs. D. B. Howatt, Mrs. J. Scuffield, Mrs. H. P. Stock, Mrs. J. Aboussaffy, Mrs. P. Moseson, Mrs. D. Wing, Mrs. Alex Barnhill, Mrs. M. Mercer, Mrs. W. Gillespie, and Mrs. Hunter of McWhinney, BS.

On Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Stock entertained at a buffet supper in compliment to Dr. and Mrs. Shillabeer.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

RILEY MULLIN, maestro of the Edmonton Flyers, appeared quite satisfied last night he has a reasonably potent hockey squad to toss against the Calgary Stampeders as the senior game returns to the Arena after a lapse of four seasons.

He says that in addition to the Bobby Carse-Joe Brown—Johnny Dutchak string, he has another shock troop trio coming along fast in Don Stanley, Stan Devico and Johnny Keanedy, and that Bing Merluk is improving every time out.

Doug. Lane, "Pug" Young and Bill Boorman should provide a lusky rearguard. "Red" Ryan, still in hospital following a recent accident, will not be available for possibly two weeks. With Ken McAuley tor the goal job, Riley shouldn't have much to worry about in that department.

BILL HARRIS REMEMBERED

BILL HARRIS was not forgotten as the juniors went into action at the Arena on Tuesday night. Art Potter, who this year has the dual role of junior director and president of the Edmonton District Hockey Association, presented his predecessor on behalf of the league with a nifty desk set, prior to the start of the Maple Leaf-South Side game.

Bill, now in charge of the Arena, was formerly director of junior hockey in Edmonton and performed yeoman service in that capacity for many years. He appreciated being remembered.

John Colville, Maple Leaf coach has a stronger junior club than last season, and once they got rolling, had little trouble with South Side last night. It looks as if they'll have to bogtie Bud McPherson or he'll run away and hide in the scoring race. He collected six points. The new tank for flooding between periods is ready.

Joe Brown's South Side Sextet Fades in Final 20 Minutes

Leafs Take Junior Hockey Opener 10-3

McPherson Marks Up Six Points

Johnny Colville's Maple Leafs out-skated a tiring South Side squad in the third period of Tuesday night's City Junior Hockey League opener and ran in a quartet of goals in taking a 10-3 victory in a slam-bang affair before a slim crowd of 500 at the Arena.

Both sides travelled at a fast clip for most of the game, but smooth combination hockey and smart finishing around the net was seldom witnessed, although the Leafs did manage to get through for 19 counters. It was also rough in spots and referees Harry Ornest and Cam Smith handed out 17 penalties, one for five minutes.

Big "Bud" McPherson, left winger on Leafs front running King-McPherson-Thomas line, spearheaded the winners' attack with a pair of goals and three assists to top a big scoring list. Mike Thomas had two goals and helped in another and Jimmy King drove home one. Moe Furmen with two, Harvey Dodds and Pullach beat South Siders goalie Victor Couture for the other Maple Leaf marker.

The line of Herb Maines, Harvey Selzer and Colin Kilburn showed up well for Joe Brown's sextet, Selzer getting two goals and Kilburn netting the other.

The South Side defence was unable to hold up under the repeated attacks by the Leafs and the forwards were only able to stand the fast pace for about two periods. The losers outshot the Leafs 34-33 in the opening session, but slowed up after that and were out-shot 19-4 in the second and 9-7 in the last. In all, Jack Manson, in the victor's nets, had 20 drives to handle while Couture had 24.

Colin Kilburn, goaler for the South Siders last season, opened the scoring and put the Brownies ahead midway through the opening canto when he picked up a loose puck and drove in past Manson. Leafs weren't long getting the equalizer, however, and with Stan Johnson in the cooler, Thomas passed to McPherson from a scramble around the losers' net and "Big Bud" drove it home.

Mike Thomas then came back on one of the many efforts of the evening to put Leafs ahead with just over a minute remaining in the initial session. He picked up the disc in his own zone, skated up to the South Side blue-line, stopped and drove a sizzler from just inside the opposition's defensive zone. Less than a minute later, with Thomas serving a tripping penalty, Maines missed a perfect chance to tie it up when he muffed a clear shot right in front of the Maple Leaf cage.

The boys from south of the Saskatchewan river came back early in the second to make it 2-2. Kilburn picked up a pass-out at centre ice, raced down to the Leaf end, Manson and Selzer moved in to slam the rebound past the Leaf custodian.

Shortly afterwards Johnson drew a penalty for holding and Leafs put on the pressure for another goal. McPherson counted on another pass from Thomas after a wild scramble in South Side territory.

The losers came back once more to deadlock the score at 3-3 before Leafs pulled away. Dom Emberg set up the goal, one of the best of the night, when he stick-handled his way in close to the Maple Leaf net and laid down a perfect pass on which Selzer made no mistake with a low, hard drive.

The Colville gang moved ahead to stay about three minutes later on a goal by McPherson that appeared to be offside. Bud received a pass which appeared to meet just over the red line from inside his own blue line, went around a lone Leaf defenseman and fired a high shot from about 10 feet out.

Harvey Green was waved with less than two minutes to go in the second frame and while he was off, Moe Furman, on two like plays following one another, ran the count to 6-3 at the end of the sandwich period.

There was little excitement in the third, with the exception of a fight between Bob Hall and Mike Thomas, and the Leafs overran the tiring South Siders to added four more, Dodds, McPherson, King and Pullach netting in that order.

Nelson Is Likely To Accept Offer Play in Africa

TEXARKANA, Tex., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Byron Nelson, all-time record money winner of golf, said Tuesday he was "inclined to accept, subject to a few details," an offer of $10,000 and expenses for a trip to Capetown to play a series of matches against Bobby Locke, leading South Africa linksman.

The offer was made by mining magnate Norbert Ereleigh, and Nelson said he was wiring Ereleigh his response. He expects an answer within 10 days.

Nelson, in Texas on a vacation, declared there were a few details necessary to be cleared up before making a contract—the most important that he take his wife, Louise, along with him.

The first offer was for January and February dates but he is unable to make them, so spring dates probably will be suitable, Nelson said.

Calgary Makes Counter Offer To Bombers for Grid Final

CALGARY, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Calgary made a counter offer to Winnipeg last night following rejection Monday of the latter club's guarantee of $900.

Still sticking to his statement that $900 was a "ridiculous offer that would pay less than half his team's expenses," Mr. Grogan, president of the Calgary Stampeders, asked for a minimum of $1,500 and offered the same deal to Winnipeg with game to be played in Calgary, Nov. 10. Pass list in either case to be restricted to 100. Must have answer by noon Wednesday in order to get ticket sale under way."

"We wouldn't insult Winnipeg by asking them to come here for the $900 guarantee they offered us," said Grogan. "I think we are showing good faith in asking no more from Bombers than we are prepared to give in return."

STAMPEDERS REPORTED AS WANTING $3,000

WINNIPEG, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Calgary Stampeders wanted a guarantee of $3,000 before they would play a single playoff game with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, for the Western Canada senior football championship, it was learned here Tuesday.

The Stampeders have agreed to play the game here Saturday providing their terms are met.

A. U. Chipman, president of the Winnipeg Rugby Club, termed the Stampeders' offer "absolutely exorbitant." He said the Winnipeg club had offered a $900 guarantee and a net gate up to $1,500.

At Calgary Monday night Jack Grogan, president of the Stampeders, said the Winnipeg offer was "ridiculous." He added he would not cover "half our expenses."

Toronto Leafs Still Seeking Initial Victory

MONTREAL, Nov. 7.—(CP)—The first 14 days of National Hockey League competition prompts an obvious question: What's wrong with Toronto Maple Leafs?

The team which won the Stanley Cup last season after a gruelling seven-game series against Detroit Red Wings still is seeking its first 1945-46 victory. Four starts to date have produced three defeats and one tie.

Leafs came out of their training camp bearing the favorite's stamp to repeat their success of last spring. Return after war service of stars like Billy Taylor, Bob Goldham and Syl Apps gave them a strong-looking club on paper.

It hasn't worked out that way in competition.

Toronto supporters hope the jinx may be snapped this week in a crowded program which will see Leafs in action four times in five days. They entertain Boston Bruins tonight, travel to Detroit Thursday, return home for a Saturday engagement against Chicago Black Hawks and then visit Chicago Sunday.

The game against Boston in Toronto tonight will mark the home debut of Apps, playmaking centre who suffered a broken nose in a pre-season game. But Leafs will be without Ted Kennedy, youthful centre, who strained back muscles in the losing effort against New York Rangers last Saturday.

Hockey Twin Bill At Arena Thursday

A double header is billed for the Arena Thursday night when the City Independent Hockey League opens it's 1945-46 campaign. Burns and Swift's meet in the first half of the twin bill at 7:30 o'clock and RCAF and Street Railway, defending champions, clash in the second game.

Calgary Stamps Are Ready For Senior Clash Tonight

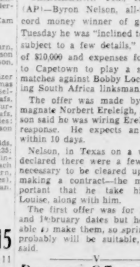
CALGARY, Nov. 7.—(CP)—The Western Canada Senior Hockey League opens tonight in Edmonton with Calgary Stampeders playing the Edmonton Flyers in the curtain raiser of the league which includes Regina and Saskatoon.

The Caps and Elks play in Regina Friday night to start the Saskatchewan half of the interprovincial loop.

Stampeders will be taking a dozen men to Edmonton for the league has set a limit of 12 men to dress for league contests.

Calgary players making the Edmonton trip are: Russ Dertell (goal), Art Michalak, Johnny McIntyre (defence), Sid Craddock, Pete Atkinson, Bunny Dame, Doug. Cairns, Tony Desmarais, Bob Brownridge (defence) Doug. Grant, Archie Wilder, Red Hunter.

League President D. P. McDonald is pleased with the reports from all centres of his league regarding players signed and the good progress made in workouts and he is looking forward to a successful senior hockey season.



STAMPEDER—Tony Desmarais, high-scoring centre for Currie Army the past two seasons, will be pivot for Calgary's first string in the senior opener against Edmonton Flyers tonight.

Southworth Manager For Boston Braves

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Billy Southworth, manager of St. Louis Cardinals, Tuesday was named manager of Boston Braves baseball club.

General Manager John Quinn of the Braves, who made the announcement, said president Sam Breadon of the Cards had agreed to release Southworth because the Braves' owners made such an attractive offer "that he felt he couldn't stand in Southworth's way."

"We believe," said Quinn, "that with a top-flight manager like Southworth we can go places."

"In his career as Cardinal manager he finished first place three times, second twice, third once and fourth once."

The Braves' general manager said Dan Dixon, who will be succeeded by Southworth, will remain in the Braves organization.

BILLY "VERY HAPPY" RETURN TO BOSTON

CLEVELAND, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Billy Southworth, former pilot of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball team, said Tuesday night he was "very happy to return to Boston as manager of Boston Braves."

Southworth, signed to succeed Hassenetie as Boston manager, declared while en route to Brandwin: "I am sure the Braves' ownership will be very co-operative with me and I am looking forward to joining their organization."

The grey-haired pilot who led the Cardinals to three straight National League pennants said: "The Braves had the hitting last year and if we can get the pitching staff clicking, we may be able to cause some trouble in the pennant race."

Commenting on Cards' owner Sam Breadon's statement that the St. Louis management "did not want to stand in the way," Billy remarked:

"It was very nice of Mr. Breadon to release me from my contract which ran for another year."

LOOKS LIKE DYER FOR FINAL JOB

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Eddie Dyer, former manager of St. Louis Cardinals' farm system, Tuesday night declined comment on a report that he was to be named manager of the Cardinals succeeding Billy Southworth, who resigned yesterday to become manager of Boston Braves.

The reports were from St. Louis, where Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, also would not comment.

Dyer formerly was manager of Houston Buffs of the Texas League, then became head of the Cardinal chain of minor league teams. He gave up this job last year to enter the oil business but has represented the Cardinals at meetings of the Texas League.

To be Played in Toronto

Grey Cup Final Set for Dec. 1

MONTREAL, Nov. 7.—(CP)—The east-west game for the Grey Cup and the Canadian football championship will be played in Toronto Dec. 1, Lt.-Col. D. Stuart-Forbes, president of the Canadian Rugby Union, announced Tuesday, setting at rest speculation that the western Canada champions might be asked to play the Inter-Provincial Rugby Union champions in a sudden-death semi-final Nov. 17.

The Eastern Canada final will be played Nov. 24 between the Big Four and Ontario Rugby Football Union champions. Two Toronto teams, Indians and Balmy Beach, will play off for the ORFU title.

Toronto Argonauts have a stranglehold on the Big Four Dominion having won 27-8 from Ottawa Rough Riders in the first game of a home-and-home points-to-count series which winds up in Ottawa this Saturday. In the west, Calgary and Winnipeg are playing off for the right to come east for the historic classic.

Col. Forbes says the arrangement carries out plans laid by the CRU executive at a meeting early in October when it agreed to a request for the ORFU that the eastwest game be set back one week from Nov. 24 to Dec. 1, because it was unable to have a team ready to play the eastern Canada final by Nov. 17.

At that time it was considered possible that the Quebec Rugby Football Union might challenge for the Grey cup and if it did its team would meet the Big Four winners in an eastern semi-final Nov. 17, with the Quebec Union did not challenge, leaving Nov. 17 an open date for the CRU competition, the Big Four can decide whether it was possible to bring the Western Canada champions east for a sudden-death semi-final Nov. 17 with the Big Four champions, for the chance to meet the ORFU titleholders in the Grey cup final.

The matter of grounds and the uncertainty as to whether or not the Western Canada winners would come east for the semi-final—depending on which team won—and the desire of CRU to make its case clear as soon as possible leaves no other view that the adherence of the decision of the meeting early in October to no playing dates is in the best interests of all concerned," said Col. Forbes.

Today's Sport Parade

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(BUP)—Like the housewife who has a score to settle with the wartime butcher, a long line of humiliated football coaches was forming today for a future pay-off to the cleated men of West Point and Annapolis.

Spotlighting The Sport Girl

By SUSIE Q

An informant stated he had it "direct from the Civic Block", that the size of the proposed gymnasium in the new high school would be fifty by seventy-five! Shades of basketball and other sports! And an auditorium to seat several thousand of the public! This corner thinks it about time that a march be made on the school board with a request to reconsider the size of gymnasium! Is it proposed for kindergarten or for grown up students?

With the increasing prospects of the Olympic Games being resurrected, it is reported that amateur officials are preparing a black list of names, steadily increasing in numbers, of those who might apply for recognition as possible competitors. The war conditions have played havoc with original intentions and rigid amateur rules. The clause respecting playing with or against professionals in sports and athletics has come into particular prominence.

Suggestions have been made and doubtless will be considered at length by amateur bodies, that the interim war years be wiped out and that a new start be made from the final peace date. Maybe this might result in a general re-organization of all amateur bodies for Olympic purposes.

The published item that one country has offered cash prizes for their successful athletes will also result in much debate in the international bodies, as to Olympic eligibility from those countries making such offers.

Do you recall the captain of the Pinafore who never used a big D? Well, Bill Dingle, of Calgary, and provincial fastball connection, has been travelling in Eastern Canada. How much will you bet that he never mentioned Dominion fastball possibilities? Do you recall that about a year ago a Toronto softball lady enthusiast made a trip through the West? Do you see any little wisps of smoke anywhere?

Toronto paper publishes that there will be no Dominion swim championships this year because certain section of the CAAU showed lack of enthusiasm in backing such an event. Also the item that resignations and suspensions followed some hot discussions in the Ontario association meeting of recent date.

In Montreal, where taxpayers pay into an earmarked fund for civic recreation facilities and where a sports clinic of various organizations exists, local swimming association withdrew because public advertising credited the clinic instead of the association as to learn-to-swim classes which had been managed almost exclusively by members of such association. Credit to whom credit is due?

Jackie Paterson Scores Knockout

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(Reuters)—Jackie Paterson of Glasgow, recognized here as the world's flyweight boxing champion scored a technical knockout over Sammy Reynolds of Wolverhampton in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout at the Queensbury Club last night.

GIRLS.—"I'll be with you in just a minute!"

Reconversion is reaching the gridiron—and fast. Nobody has a longer memory than the football coach who during the war had the alumni wolves right in his parlor after each service team's belted old siwash around with adding machine shutouts. The tip-off comes from veteran Bob Higgins of Penn State, although he bears no malice himself.

"In another year it will be pretty well settled off and the Army and Navy won't have such a tremendous edge," Bob predicts. "And there's no doubt that some of the coaches have resented wholesale trimmings handed out by the two academies."

ARMY CHIEF BOUNCER

ARMY has been the chief bouncer during the past two years. In 1944 the cadets handed Notre Dame its worst defeat in history, 59 to 0, and trampled Villanova, 83-0; Pitt, 69-7, and Penn, 62-7. This season they gave Duke its worst defeat, 48-13, and blasted both Wake Forest and Villanova by the same count—54 to 0. Navy humbled Penn State, 53-14, last year, and crushed Cornell, 48-0, and Purdue, 32-0, while smashing Villanova, 49-0, this season.

Stop a moment, mate, and consider what such teams as Pitt, Notre Dame, Duke, Penn and Wake Forest are going to turn loose against the cadets and Middies when things level off, and also how much they'll call off the dogs.

"Of course you can't tell your substitutes not to go in and play hard," Higgins said in defence of the Academics. "And they're fresh and trying, so the score goes up. But I suppose there were times when the first team could have been pulled sooner—and some of the coaches are resentful at the scores run up."

Coach at Penn State for 17 years, Higgins thought last year that the leveling off process would take five years. But now he believes it will start next season.

VETERANS ARE BETTER

THESE returning veterans coming back to school are much rougher, tougher and better players than when they went away," he said. "Well, before the war the academies had to watch us—to see if we were going to happen when we have men who are experienced, older and better than ever."

The gray-haired coach of the Nittany Lions knows whereof he speaks concerning the returning veteran. He was one himself after World War I—leaving Penn State to become "one of those 90 day wonders"—and was seasoned playing with the Pershing AEF team overseas. On his return it was back to college, on to the Canton Bulldogs where he played for two years with Jim Thorpe, and then into coaching at West Virginia Wesleyan, Washington University of St. Louis and, finally, State.

"Those returning veterans are going to make reconversion old football field swift, sure—and rather rugged," Bob smiled.

No, Higgins isn't bearing any malice. He bears no grudge that his better than fair club was beaten only once—a 28-0 thumping by Navy. But you can bet it won't happen next year and that Bob, when the time comes, will need plenty of touchdowns to satiate his service appetite.

Blake Leading NHL Scorer With 8 Points in 4 Games

MONTREAL, Nov. 7.—(CP)—National Hockey League statistics, released Tuesday, showed Toe Blake, left-wing and captain of Montreal Canadiens, leading the individual scoring parade with six goals and two assists piled up in the four games played by the Habitants this season. Blake's six goals is tops in that department.

A three-way tie for second place has Max Bentley of Chicago Black Hawks, and Billy Cowley of Boston Bruins with five goals and one assist each, and Alex Kaleta of Chicago with two goals and four assists. Kaleta's four assists makes him the leading playmaker to date.

Maurice Richard of Montreal, with three goals and two assists, and Bill Moslenko of Chicago and Elmer Lach of Montreal with two goals and three assists make up a three-way tie for third place.

Among goalkeepers, Harry Lumley of Detroit Red Wings is tops with only four goals against him in three games for an average of 1.33. Lumley also holds the league's only shutout of the season. Butch Bouchard of Montreal is leading the league in penalties, with 13 minutes spent in the box.

Chicago and Montreal are in a two-way tie in the league standings, both with three victories in four games for six points.

Morey Rimstad Scores Three As Flyers Win

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 7.—(AP)—With Morey Rimstad hitting the net three times and assisting on another occasion, St. Louis Flyers won their second game of the season last night over New Haven Eagles, 6-3, in an American Hockey League contest.

Rimstad turned in an assist on the first goal of the evening by Red Brown of the Flyers, then teamed with Oscar Aubuchon for two of his own and topped it off with a solo score.

Aubuchon also scored once for himself and assisted on the Brown goal in the first period.

The Eagles kept on even terms for 30 minutes and led 2-1 at one time before the Flyers skated into high gear. Spectacular saves by goalie Hec Highton kept the Eagles scoreless after the first period until the last 59 seconds of the contest.

Ken Kilrea and Joffrey Deslets tallied for the Eagles in the first period and Jack Davies netted the final point just before the game ended.

Winners Remembered

Tendency to Forget Players For Which Cups Are Named

By ALAN HARVEY

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Down the years in sport, Memorial trophies are awarded in recognition of a wide range of skills. The younger generation usually can recite the names of recent winners but there's a regrettable tendency to forget the personalities of the men for whom the trophies were named.

Any football fan, for instance, can tell you that George Fraser of Ottawa Rough Riders is the 1945 holder of the Jeff Russel Memorial trophy, awarded to the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union player adjudged most sportsmanlike and most valuable to his team. But few remember Russel's gridiron career.

Young Russel came back from the First Great War with battle decorations to star with McGill University in 1920-21. Later he went to Montreal's big four entry and while the team won few games, Russel for clean, hard play at flying wing won acclaim as one of the circuit's outstanding performers.

In 1927 Russel, an electrical engineer, was electrocuted while repairing a power line during a storm. The Jeff Russel Memorial trophy came into being the following year.

The trophy was awarded annually from 1928 to 1941, when the big four suspended operations for the war period. Fraser this season became the fifth Ottawa winner of the trophy, giving Rough Riders equal rank with Toronto Argonauts. Hamilton Tigers have won it three times and Montreal twice.

It's a fitting honor for Fraser, plodding 34-year-old inside wing who has served Ottawa teams faithfully since 1932. Fraser came from his native Perthshire, Scotland, at the age of 11 and learned to play rugby football "just by accident" four years later when he entered a "pick-up" game of what he thought was a Canadian version of soccer, then his favorite sport.

From 1932 to 1940, Fraser toiled in the shadow of Charles (Tiny) Herman, his inside wing mate whose sure-fire toe and ponderous size made him one of football's most colorful figures. Herman left to join the Canadian Navy in 1940 and Fraser took over as placement kicker. His square toe was just as accurate and in his first season he led all four scorers.

St. Paul Beaten By Minneapolis

ST. PAUL, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Minneapolis defeated St. Paul, 5-3, in a United States Hockey League game here before 5,033 fans Tuesday night. It was the first defeat for St. Paul and the first win for Minneapolis.

The Millers jumped into the lead after 1:47 minutes of play when Jimmy Simpson batted in a goal and never were headed. Twice St. Paul came from behind in the first period to tie the score but that was as close as they got.

ORFU Questions The Eligibility of Krol and Marko

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Harold Bailey, secretary of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, said Tuesday night the ORFU has asked the Canadian Rugby Union for a declaration concerning eligibility for CRU playdowns for Joe Krol of Toronto Argonauts and Steve Marko of Ottawa Rough Riders.

He said the question of eligibility was raised by the ORFU on its own initiative and not at the request of any member clubs whose Grey cup changes might be enhanced by any ruling declaring Krol or Marko not eligible for Grey cup layoffs.

The ORFU had refused Windsor Rockets permission to use Krol because Hamilton was the last city where the Windsor, Ont., back fielder had established residence before trying out with Detroit Lions of the United States Professional League. In fairness to Windsor, therefore, the ORFU felt it should seek a CRU ruling on Krol's eligibility.

Bailey added that under the CRU constitution a player must be a continuous resident of Canada for one year prior to the opening of the football season to qualify for CRU playdowns.

Krol and Marko both played in the first game of the inter-provincial union title series, won by Argos, 27-8.

Al (Rummy) Davis Through Fighting

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Al (Rummy) Davis, who scored the biggest boxing upset of 1944 by knocking out lightweight champion Bob Montgomery in the first round, probably has fought his last fight, promoter Mike Jacobs' office said Tuesday, because of difficulty in making weight.

As a result, Davis' Dec. 21 10-round bout with Morris Reif at Madison Square Garden has been cancelled.

Davis, 27, started fighting in 1937 and engaged in nearly 80 bouts. He last appeared in the Garden May 25 when he suffered a four-round knockout by Rocky Graziano.

Former Pitcher Syracuse Chiefs Becomes Pastor

EAST ORANGE, N.J., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Rev. Bertram E. Humphries, known as Bert Humphries to baseball players of the International League, where he hurled last August for the Syracuse Chiefs, will become pastor of the Trinity Congregational church, East Orange, Dec. 2.

He signed with the New York Yankees in 1934 and during the next two years played with Newark Bears, Norfolk, Va., and Akron, Ohio.

In 1936, after being released from the Yankee chain, he attracted attention of St. Louis Cardinal scouts by his pitching for Brooklyn Bushwicks and played until 1939 for Columbus, Pine Bluff and Sacramento.

For the last five years he has been a hurler in the final weeks of the season for teams in the eastern and international leagues.

IRVING KLINE — E. G. WARHAM — DERRY DERRINGTON

JEWELERS ASSOCIATION ELECTS OFFICERS—Irving Kline was re-elected by acclamation as president of the Northern Alberta Jewelers' Association at the annual meeting held Tuesday night in the Corona hotel. E. G. Warham was elected vice-president and Derry Derrington replaces the late J. S. Dawe as secretary-treasurer. A discussion took place on the possibility of having legislation passed to force establishments that sell jewelry, but are not definitely jewelry stores, from selling anything in the jewelry line after the jewelers' regular closing hour of 6 p.m. Members stated that it was an "unfair practice" against jewelers for these other stores that sell watches and toilet articles to be allowed to offer them for sale later than the jewelers' regular closing hour. Post war merchandise and the rehabilitation of returned service personnel into their former jobs was discussed. The meeting was one of the largest in recent years with members attending from many districts.

Rye Futures Give Irregular Display

WINNIPEG, Nov. 7 — (CP) — Rye futures prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today gave a most irregular display advancing sharply in early trading for seasonal highs on buying from shipper, locals and American houses. Later offerings became more liberal, support thinned and advances were reduced. Trading was quite active.

At the close prices were 1½-⅛ lower with Dec. $1.78¾; May $1.76¾b and July $1.67¾b.

There was no export business reported in Canadian grain.

LONDON STOCKS

LONDON, Nov. 7—(Reuters)—After early absorption of a small number of overnight orders the stock market settled down for a quiet sesion.

Some interest was displayed for industrials with radios prominent, while cable and wireless issues again were in demand. Textiles and rayons met quiet support but building shares eased under profit-taking and breweries also were offered.

British funds and home rails ruled steady, while among foreign bonds Far Eastern liens were off, although European bonds were firm.

South African gold mines were firm on local and Cape Town support.

International dollar stocks eased in absence of a lead from New York.

Britain Seeks More Lenient U.S. Loan Deal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—(CP)—The reply of the British government to a United States proposal of a $4,000,000,000 loan was reported reliably today to urge a lower rate of interest, the British view being that the proposed two per cent rate might prove crippling to Britain's post-war fiscal position.

THE BRITISH REPLY to American proposals made more than a week ago was received in Washington late last night. The leading delegates in the Anglo-American monetary discussions, under way here for nearly two months, conferred immediately upon its receipt. The midnight talks were conducted amid strict secrecy.

One billion dollars less than the figure the American conferees originally proposed several weeks ago, the proposal of a $4,000,000,000 loan carreid a suggested rate of interest of two per cent, with repayment starting five years after the loan was made.

AN "ESCAPE CLAUSE" also would be provided whereby Britain could defer repayment in any year in which her fiscal balance was unfavorable.

The original American proposal envisaged an interest rate of two-fifths of one per cent on a loan of $5,000,000,000 over a long period, possibly 30 years. This proposal was revised in the plan sent to London last week and which the Attlee government has been considering.

BRITAIN'S INITIATIVE in reopening the negotiations, which have been almost at a standstill for three weeks, may well mark the turning point in the extended conferences.

It was considered possible that British acceptance of an American-sponsored international trade organization convention may help to persuade the American delegates that Congress can "stand for" more lenient loan terms.

Livestock

Commons Approves Increased Capi t a l Air Lines Company

OTTAWA, Nov. 7—(CP)—The Commons last night gave third and final reading to the bill to increase the authorized capital of Trans-Canada Air Lines from $5,000,000 to $25,000,000.

The bill also authorizes the formation of subsidiary companies and Reconstruction Minister Howe said the intention was that these companies would be formed to operate trans-oceanic air services. There was no intention to use them for operating services in Canada or for taking over Canadian Pacific Air Lines.

The house voted down amendments proposed by Progressive Conservative members and designed to limit the exercise of certain powers given by the bill to operations outside Canada.

The ROAD AHEAD

By Capt. HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

THE recent statement of H. J. Symington, president of Trans-Canada Air Lines, before the parliamentary committee on railways and shipping, in which he stated that "it takes longer to reteach ex-RCAF pilots to fly commercial planes than it does to teach green hands because they have learned bad habits and fly by the seat of their pants", is very interesting. It is very interesting because it is not in accordance with facts.

Mr. Symington, of course, is not a pilot. He was a corporation lawyer before he became president of TCA. The information he gave to the committee was not his own opinion, but an opinion he had received from his executives and advisers among the high-priced help of that organization.

It is perfectly obvious why pilots and executive pilots of TCA should report to their superiors that RCAF personnel, regardless of their service experience, were not suitable persons to fly TCA's commercial planes. Before the war there were relatively few pilots. The only way a man could learn advanced flying techniques was by an apprentice system where he spent several hundreds of air-hours as a co-pilot. Under this system commercial pilots, especially on the main line runs, could, and did, command particularly high wages.

START IN AT $250

Today Trans - Canada Airline pilots start in as co-pilots at $250 per month. Periodic increases advance this sum to $565 per month for co-pilots. After an average of about two years as co-pilots they will be advanced, when vacancies permit, to captains at a minimum of $400 per month and top pay is $780 per month for captains on planes flying over the mountains or into New York. Average pay for captains runs about $550 per month.

Now let's get the picture straight. Each day hundreds of men are being discharged from the RCAF. Many of these are experienced pilots who don't know how to do anything but fly airplanes and don't want to do anything else if they can get it.

You can see at once what would happen if the TCA experts were to admit that these men really knew how to fly airplanes. There are a whole lot more of these men who know how to fly airplanes than there are airplanes—in other words, pilots would be a dime a dozen and it wouldn't be long before pilots' salaries went into a power dive towards the lower brackets.

Under these circumstances it

Bridal Couple Suffer Injuries In Auto Crash

A man and his wife, married for less than an hour, were among six persons who suffered minor injuries as the result of traffic accidents in Edmonton streets Tuesday afternoon, according to city police. Those injured, were:

* * *

MRS. PETER KOCHMAR of Myrnam, suffered shock and was removed to the Royal Alexandra following a bus-car collision. A. J. Berube, Lucien Berube, Marcel Gobeil, and Mr. and Mrs. Andre Fontaine, each suffered bruises in a truck-car crackup. All are from Beaumont in the St. Paul district.

In both accidents, the vehicles involved were seriously damaged.

MR. AND MRS. FONTAINE were married Tuesday afternoon, and were passengers in the car driven by Alex J. Berube of Beaumont, following the ceremony, when the auto was struck by a truck said to have been driven by John R. Sample of 10928 82 street, at the intersection of 99 street and 82 avenue.

The auto was forced against a telephone pole on the southeast corner of the intersection, after the impact.

MRS. KOCHMAR was passenger in an automobile driven by her father, Nick A. Hrabec of Myrnam, when the car struck a bus allegedly operated by Robert K. Henderson of 9637 106 street, at the intersection of 101 street and 118 avenue.

Henderson was thrown from the seat of the bus from the impact, but was able to regain control of the vehicle to bring it to a stop.

Public Relations Officer Retiring

Flt. Lt. Gordon Williamson, well-known in radio sports circles before the war, and public relations officer at Northwest Air Command, RCAF, for some months now, has obtained an honorable discharge from the air force.

He expects to be back in "civies" this week.

Joining the RCAF early in the war, Flt. Lt. Williamson became well-known for his publicity work overseas with the famed City of Edmonton Mosquito bomber squadron.

He suffered a severe injury in an accident in England and returned to Canada.

He plans to return to sports announcing with some free lance writing on the side.

Members of Wesley United Church Extend Welcome to New Pastor

AND

Nearly two hundred members of Wesley United Church Tuesday night attended a reception to welcome their new pastor, the Rev. James R. Cox and Mrs. Cox, who recently arrived in the city from Donelson, Tennessee. Formerly a chaplain with the USAAF here for two years, the Rev. Cox is well known to many congregations.

Mr. Cox is the first American minister to receive a call from a United Church in Canada, and all the speakers at the affair said in welcoming the new pastor.

GOODWILL MESSAGES were brought to the meeting by ministers from other churches of the city.

The church hall, where the reception was held, was decorated with United States and Canadian flags and bowls of multi-colored chrysanthemums.

On the speakers' platform were seated the guests of honor, as well as Dr. Joseph Wondsworth, reception chairman, the Rev. Dr. E. J. Scrase, former pastor, and Dr. William Hollingsworth, acting minister. Mrs. H. B. Curtis, president of the Women's Auxiliary, and ministers from other church bodies of the city.

MESSAGES WERE READ from the Rev. Elgin G. Turnbull and the Rev. Dr. Murdoch MacKinnon, who were unable to be present at the reception.

The Rev. J. MacBeath Miller, president of the Edmonton Ministerial Association, welcomed the new minister and his wife back to the city and extended the good wishes of the association. He also brought greetings from First Presbyterian Church.

Other speakers who brought messages of welcome included the Rev. E. H. Birdsall, president of the Edmonton Presbytery; the Rev. E. S. Otley, Christ church; the Rev. Daniel Young, First Baptist church.

THE NEW MINISTER spoke briefly to the gathering and said he hoped there will be continually growing unity among the churches of the city, to work together in the brotherhood of Christ.

A program of musical selections were presented by H. S. Furness, William Smith, Mrs. R. G. Cook and Mrs. J. W. Robinson, accompanied by Miss Naomi Mitchener.

After the welcoming addresses and musical program, refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation. Those receiving were Mrs. W. H. Sterne, Mrs. A. E. Moore, Nelles Buchanan, KC, and A. E. Rose.

Dowler Declares Always Had Job

Joseph H. Dowler, Civic Democratic Alliance aldermanic candidate in the civic election, Wednesday issued the following statement correcting a report of his remarks at a meeting on Monday night.

"I was quoted in Tuesday's paper as having said I 'lost my job and joined the hundreds of others in riding the rods from place to place in the effort to pick up a job to keep from going hungry.' Tonight when I hear cries recalling soup kitchens and breadlines I can understand just what that memory means.'

"What I said was that as a result of the depression, I went on 'the tramp' for from five to seven years.

"I should not have used that expression, which is a railway term.

"What was meant was that I was transferred from place to place during that period, having no steady place of employment but never being out of the railroad's employment.

"I have never been out of a job in my life".

Federation Plans Ask Incorporation By Provincial Act

A motion that the necessary steps be taken to incorporate the federation with the Provincial government act is to be recommended to the regular monthly meeting of the Federation of Community Leagues which will be held Thursday, Nov. 8 in the Civic block at 8 p.m.

This was decided at a meeting of the federation executive held in the Memorial Hall Monday night. Chairman of the meeting was Ken Lewis.

Father Informed Son Not Aboard Ill-Fated Aircraft

Official word has been received by P. T. Ford, 9026 91 street, that his son, FO. Phillip Ford, was not on the ill-fated Flying Fortress which crashed at Muenster, Germany, on Tuesday. An earlier report said it was believed that four of the crew had perished.

The big plane was en route to Warsaw with a cargo of penicillin to aid in the fight against wide-spread plague in Poland. FO. Ford had written his parents that he expected to make the trip from Prestwick, Scotland as part of the crew.

City Architect Gives Address At Club Meet

Guest speaker at a meeting of the YMCA Y's Men's club Tuesday night was Maxwell C. Dewar, city architect, who spoke on "How a City Grows." One new member was introduced, in the person of Jim Fraser. Members were entertained by Dan Phillips and his musical saw.

Next week's meeting, which will be induction night, will have as guest speaker, the Rev. James R. Cox, former U.S. Army chaplain, now of Wesley United Church.

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the progress being made in the Victory Loan campaign?

THE ANSWERS

GEORGE WILLIAMSON, trucker: There is no doubt that Canada as a whole are determined to sign their names to Victory. Edmontonians are going to be up among the leaders when percentage and over-subscription of quota are concerned.

* * *

HARRY SMITHERS, clerk: I think it is a great tribute to the good common sense of the people as a whole that they want to fight the battle of rehabilitation and against inflation so forcibly.

* * *

JOHN TIMMINS, student: I am happy to see such a fine response. It shows Canadians are all-out to win the peace as they were to win the war.

More Navy Ratings Here For Discharge

Nine more naval ratings have reported for discharge with homes in Edmonton and district centres as follows: Lawrence Charles Hughes, 9617 110A avenue; Peter Ballash, 10542 109 street; Andrew Murray Gillies, 11127 127 street; Norman Clarence Beckley, Magrath; Robert Arthur Berry, 11040 80 avenue; Roy Richard Blakeley 9824 108 street; Jack Adolphus Courtemanche, Cold-sort; Albert Owen, 8511 109 street; Harry Frederick Stratton, 8919 89 street.

Cancel Meeting

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Trades and Labor Council, usually held the second Monday of the month, has been cancelled for November because most of the Councils delegates will be attending the annual convention of the Alberta Federation of Labor.

Sea Cadets' Band Seeks Instructor

Edmonton Sea Cadets with musical ambitions are pining away for lack of instructions on their favorite instruments, the bugle and the drum, it was reported at Monday's meeting of the Edmonton Sea Cadets committee.

Sea Cadets Corps Warrior has a full set of regulation bugles and drums and a couple of score of enthusiastic candidates for a drum and bugle band—but no qualified instructor.

"Here's a chance for some returned man who really understands bugle band work to make a tremendous contribution to boys' work in Edmonton," committee chairman Roy C. Jackson said Wednesday. "The boys are keen as mustard and they'll do credit to whoever tr-s them on."

Anyone interested in the bugle band may obtain full details from John Watson, phone 22121.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Girl Should Return Gift With Stern Letter

Teen-Age Girl Has Trouble With a Boy Who Tells Everybody That She Is His Girl and Tries to Monopolize Her

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a teen-age girl who is having trouble with a boy who tells everybody that I am HIS girl, and who tries to monopolize me. I can't even speak to another boy without his announcing that I am his girl and for every other boy to stay away from me. I don't even like this boy and I have told him I wouldn't stand for it, but it doesn't make the slightest difference. He keeps on hanging around me and driving everybody else away, and I don't know what to do.

On my birthday he gave me a handsome present. What must I do? TEEN-AGER.

WRITE LETTER

Answer: Well, the first thing to do is to send him back his present and write him that you do not wish to receive any gifts from him, or to have anything more to do with him. That will hit him in his vanity and prove to him that you mean what you say.

Evidently you haven't made your position with him strong enough. You tell him to go away, you let him keep on coming. What you need to do is to slam the fact good and hard in his face. And remember this—the longer you dilly-dally with him, the harder you are going to find it to break with him.

You are quite right in trying to get rid of this boy, because if he once establishes his claim that you are his girl, it tags you and will drive all other boys away. Many girls eventually marry men they don't care anything for because they have let some possessive boy put his brand upon them so that no is their last chance.

I think any girl who goes "steady" with a boy until she is really engaged to him and the wedding day is in sight is just naturally lacking in good, hard, commonsense. She sets the hot end of the bargain, because the boy can ditch her whenever he gets tired of her, but she has no comeback. She has no claim on him whatever.

DOROTHY DIX.

WIFE DIFFERS

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Whenever my wife differs with me on any subject she says: "You are a liar." I resent this, for I have lived a truthful life for half a century, and am not accustomed to having such derogatory terms applied to me. When we are out in company and she howls this 'insult at me, I get downright embarrassed.

What shall I do to tone down this new wife of mine? T. M.

Answer: If you have lived to be 50 years old before marrying and then have gotten a wife who not only is a shrew but is lacking in even common good manners, you are certainly to be pitied.

Being called a liar has always been a fighting word, so you will have to use strong-armed methods in dealing with a wife who calls you one. The longer you let her insult you, the bolder she will get, so you will have to roll up your sleeves and spit on your hands and give her a few knock-out blows that will make her afraid to hold you up to ridicule publicly.

And, inasmuch as your battle has to be a verbal one, your best bet is to think up some epithets to call her that will make liar seem almost like a pet word. A few scathing references to her personal appearance would be atomic bombs that would turn the trick.

DOROTHY DIX.

DESERTED FATHER

DEAR MISS DIX: My mother deserted my father, myself and my two younger sisters to go off with another man. My father got a divorce and got married. I did everything in my power to try to be kind and helpful to my stepmother but she hated me and even finally said that if I didn't leave the house she would, so I went to live with my aunt who has no children.

My father and the children are very unhappy without me, and my father says that if I love him I will sacrifice everything and come back home. What shall I do? R. T.

Answer: I think it would be much better for you to stay with your aunt if she wants you with her. It will not make your father happy if you go back, because you will always be a source of discord between him and his wife, nor will it add to the children's happiness, for your stepmother will turn against them if they side with you.

The best thing you can do is to work hard and fit yourself for some occupation by which you can support yourself. DOROTHY DIX.

Points for Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Mother: "We've made the mistake of comparing Jim with Bill and I've about decided much of his bad behavior is simply a protest against this."

Mother: "Jim is our problem child. I'll admit we don't know how to handle him. His older brother never gave us any trouble either at school or home."

There is no such thing as a problem child but parents create problems when they fail to recognize individual differences.

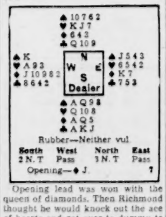
McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

America's Card Authority

John Whitney Richmond of the War Finance Committee of New York gave me today's hand. He said he had expected to go down one, but that was not the way it worked out.



Rubber—Neither vul.

South	West	North	East
2 N.T	Pass	3 N.T	Pass
Opening—♦ J

Opening lead was won with the queen of diamonds. Then Richmond thought he would knock out the ace of hearts and get over to dummy to finesse the spade. He made the mistake, however, of leading to dummy's deuce of spades, whereupon East said, "You have led from the wrong hand".

Now declarer was forced to lead the same suit from the correct hand, and Richmond had to lay down his ace of spades. Of course he caught West's singleton king then knocked out the ace of hearts and was able to finesse East out of his jack of spades. Thus, instead of going down one, he made five-odd.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The way to insure good tooth development, as well as proper bone growth and nerve stability is to provide not only the necessary food elements but adequate doses of vitamin D.

Despite the familiarity of vitamin D dosages there are mothers who still ask, "Do I have to give my baby cod liver oil?" It's a sad loss to the growing child if you do not.

It was once the common custom to provide vitamin D in the form of cod liver oil and children did fight against it in the large doses once considered necessary. Now, if a child shows distaste for the plain oil there are countless concentrates which satisfy needs by drops instead of teaspoons.

There still are lots of children who swallow their teaspoons of oil and ask for more but no parent needs to comfort herself that because she had no oil her children do as well without it. They won't.

* The minimum amount of vitamin D considered adequate for a day is 400 international units. This amount is contained in about one spoonful of plain cod liver oil, in three drops of viosterol or in from 5 to 6 drops of any of the concentrates.

This is the minimum dose. The baby may need much more, so this is a matter to be decided by the doctor who cares for the baby.

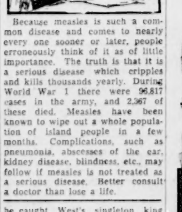
But there are mothers who ask their neighbors how much oil they give and make this the basis of their daily dosages. There is a difference in the amount of international units of A—as well as D—and the mother should make it a habit to read the labels of the product she intends to buy and see how much of these vitamins her baby will get in the dosage advised. With 400 I.U.'s as her check figure she will know whether she is getting good value for her money, and whether baby is getting proper protection against rickets.

She must take into account whether the milk she feeds the baby has any appreciable amount of vitamin D as an added factor. Canned milks are often irradiated and then provide a definite number of international units of vitamin D. Read the printing on the cans. Then you will know what your baby is getting and if his milk plus vitamin D makes the dosage unnecessarily heavy.

The fact is that these vital food essentials are not to be wasted. Too much may not hurt the baby, but neither does it offer him any "extra" benefit.

Our leaflet, No. 14, "Rickets and the Antirachitics," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of this newspaper.

Debunker



Because measles is such a common disease and comes to nearly every one sooner or later, people erroneously think of it as of little importance. The truth is that it is a serious disease which cripples and kills thousands yearly. During World War 1 there were 96,817 cases in the army, and 2,367 of these died. Measles have been known to wipe out a whole population of island people in a few months. Complications, such as pneumonia, abscesses of the ear, kidney disease, blindness, etc., may follow if measles is not treated as a serious disease. Better consult a doctor than lose a life.

Trudy Porter Becomes Bride

CALGARY, Nov. 7—Gold and white chrysanthemums decorated Knox United church in Calgary for the wedding on Nov. 1 of Mrs. Trudy Ann Porter, daughter of Mrs. E. Schell of Edmonton and LAC Verne Street, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Street of Vancouver. The Rev. A. R. Husband officiated.

The bride wore a two-piece dress of turquoise blue with black accessories and carried a colonial bouquet of American Beauty roses and white daisies.

Mrs. William MacMurdo, the bride's only attendant, wore a gold wool dress with matching accessories. W. H. Inglis was best man.

After the ceremony a small reception was held at the Tea Kettle Inn. For receiving the bride's mother wore black crepe complimented with a black sequin hat and a corsage of Talisman roses.

WHITE LINEN

The bride's table was laid in white linen and centred with a tiered wedding cake flanked with tall white tapers.

The gifts were later shown at the home of Mr. and Mrs. MacMurdo.

The couple will reside in Vancouver where the bridegroom will attend the University of British Columbia.

Out-of-town guests included Rev. Field and Donald Schell, the Misses Ruth Bryant and Margaret Allan, Edmonton, Mrs. J. Bryhell and Mrs. C. B. MacMurdo, Wetaskiwin.

Barbara Speed Becomes Bride

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 7.—The Seventh Baptist church, Baltimore, Md., was the scene of a wedding, Sept. 22, when Miss Barbara Speed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Speed of Victoria and Edmonton, became the bride of Capt. Douglas Lamar Alford, U.S. Army, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Alford of Pheonix City, Ala. The Rev. John Henry Day officiated.

Given in marriage by Roger W. Berry, the bride chose a corn flower blue silk jersey frock with navy accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Miss Patricia Berry Thomas and Miss Jean Berry were bridesmaids.

Mr. Berry was best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Washington hotel for 75 guests.

The couple spent a honeymoon at Washington, DC., and have taken up residence in San Francisco, Calif.

BABY'S COLDS RUB ON VICKS VAPORUB
Relieve misery direct—without "dosing."

Says Elsie: "Whether you're traveling, visiting, or at home, you can give baby uniformly pure, nourishing milk with KLIM!

"You just add KLIM to water, whip briskly with fork or beater to make the exact amount of milk you need."

Pasteurized—pure!

KLIM is pasteurized whole milk in handy powder form. Retains all the vitamins, minerals and proteins of fresh pasteurized milk. Is more easily digested by infants.

Packed in vacuum-sealed containers, KLIM keeps fresh for a long time after opening. And it's so compact and convenient to carry when travelling. Economical, too! Ask your doctor about KLIM for your baby.

THESE WOMEN—"Why, Jimmy darling—Knit two—it's so good—over one—to see you—purl two—be with you—over one—in a minute—knit two—"

Grace Olsen Autumn Bride

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Olsen was the scene of a wedding Tuesday at 5 p.m., when their daughter, Miss Grace Olsen, became the bride of Cpl. J. J. Ouellette, Canadian Army, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Ouellette of Bonnyville. The Rev. D. C. Ramsey officiated.

WHITE CREPE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white crepe frock fashioned with a torso length fitted bodice and sweetheart neckline. She wore a coronet of roses on her head and a corsage of sweetheart roses.

Her sister, Miss Leila Olsen, was bridesmaid. She wore a Nile green frock and a corsage of pink roses.

After the ceremony an informal reception for immediate friends of the family, was held at the bride's home. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Olsen wore a black crepe frock, complimented with a corsage of red roses.

WEDDING CAKE

The bride's table was set with a white cloth and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake. Slender white tapers flanked the centrepiece and white and mauve baby chrysanthemums completed the floral decorations. Presiding at the coffee urn was Mrs. Erich Mueller. C. L. Olsen proposed the bridal toast.

After a short honeymoon, the couple will make their home in Edmonton.

Elizabeth Woodward Says . . .

DON'T LOSE SLEEP OVER PEOPLE WHO DON'T GO FOR YOU

You discover someone who doesn't like you. It may be a boy you think is out of this world. It may be a gal you'd like for a best friend. Or perhaps it's another gang at school. They don't hate you, these people, but they don't like you either. You leave them cold. It's as if you really don't exist. And nothing cuts deeper than the discovery that some people not only don't care whether you're around—but even prefer you weren't!

It isn't that there's anything the matter with you. You read all the ads, and you're very, very careful. You're polite and don't like a fright. You're a good sport, a swell date—and with your cronies you're tops.

Lots of people like you. But there are a few who don't go for you at all. They like twenty other people better.

SOME PREFER VANILLA

Lying awake at night and plotting, won't cast a spell on the antiyous. You could do their homework and run their errands, chase after the boys and shadow the girls. Telephone write notes, invite them to parties. But that all adds up to looking ridiculous. And they'll just laugh! You see, some people will just never like you. No matter what you do. You aren't their type. You get in their hair. You just add up to something they don't care for, thank you. They don't like strawberry either. So they take vanilla.

You shouldn't feel too badly about it though. It happens to everybody! After all, you know a few people Janes you don't care for, don't you?

A couple of people you wouldn't want for pals? But they don't wall around town, just because they didn't make your list!

A VARIETY OF FLAVORS

For every person who doesn't take strawberry, there are fifty who do. So don't waste your time worrying because red-headed Jimmie can't see you. Spend your moments with guys who can't take their eyes off you! Naturally, your not going to cut Jimmie dead. You're not going to gossip about him or poke fun at him. It may be that Jimmie doesn't like you because he doesn't know you very well. And he never will if you declare war. Just go on your merry way. Have fun with the people who go for you. Don't give a tinkling thought to those who don't. If your friendly cheeriness leaves two or three cold, remind yourself they don't know what they're missing. After all, it's their loss.

J. McCutcheon Weds Miss Fair

WINNIPEG, Nov. 7—A wedding of interest to Edmonton took place Oct. 27 in the Riverview United church, Winnipeg, when Miss Margaret Elizabeth Fair, youngest daughter of Mrs. C. Fair, of Winnipeg, and the late R. T. Fair, became the bride of Jack Cornett McCutcheon, son of N. E. McCutcheon of Edmonton. The Rev. William Briggs officiated. William McKean played the wedding music and Mrs. F. Woolley sang the Lohengrin Benediction," and "My Prayer."

POWDER-BLUE FROCK

Given in marriage by her brother, James Fair, the bride wore a powder-blue afternoon frock, the peplum and three-quarter sleeves fashioned with hand-drawn scroll work. Her hat was an off-the-face model of matching material trimmed with shoulder-length veil. She carried Briercliffe roses.

Mrs. W. G. Ewing was matron-of-honor. John Smith was best man.

A reception was held at the Royal Alexandra hotel. Later the couple left for Edmonton, where they are now residing.

Try Making Cough Syrup at Home. Quick Relief

Saves You Big Dollars. And It's So Easy! No Cooking.

No matter what you usually use for coughs due to colds, you'll be more than surprised when you make up this favorite home mixture and give it a trial. You'll wonder why you never used it before. It certainly does its work effectively!

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—it's no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired. Get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (a concentrated compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form), well known as a soothing agent for throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please.

Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle and fill up with your syrup. This makes 18 ounces—a family supply—and gives you about four times as much for your money. Never spoils. Has a pleasant taste. Children love it. And for quick action, you'll say it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easier, and lets you sleep.

Sudden Change

More Jobless Than Jobs In Dominion at Present

By P. W. DEMPSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—Canada's labor market situation has taken a sudden change now that the war is over and for the first time since early in the war there are more people looking for work than there are jobs available.

The labor department is somewhat afraid the picture will get a bit worse before it begins to improve. This is because of the large number of men and women being discharged steadily from the armed forces.

Many businesses and manufacturers who plan to utilize the services of large numbers of returned persons, have not been able to convert from war-time to peace-time production as rapidly as had been hoped. The result is that potential employees may have to wait for a while before they can be placed in jobs they had been counting on.

LABOR FEARFUL

Labor minister Humphrey Mitchell said Monday that the employment pendulum swung past the point where jobs available equalled job seekers around mid-October. There are rising fears among labor organizations that the pendulum may swing so far as to cause serious protracted unemployment.

In the two weeks prior to November, the number of vacancies awaiting would-be workers dropped by more than 6,200, while an accompanying rise of almost 8,500 was recorded in the number of unplaced applicants for employment. Across Canada, national employment service offices reported up to the end of October a total of 146,597 job-seekers compared with 133,351 jobs.

Of the 17 largest cities across Canada, 12 now report that the number of unplaced applicants is in excess of the vacancies to be filled locally.

Despite the marked change in the general employment situation, many thousands of jobs are still open to men and women suited to the type of work offered. In the prairies, the need is principally for skilled tradesmen. The movement of farmers to seasonal employment in the logging camps and other industries is well under way, stimulated by recruiting campaigns through the labor department, provincial farm labor services and canvassing by woods contractors.

Unfilled vacancies in the prairie provinces at the end of October totalled 21,023 while the unplaced applicants numbered 17,969.

Seasonal Increase Shown in Number Unemployed Here

Though there are still 1,833 vacancies available for men, and 423 for women, at the local offices of selective service, there has been the usual seasonal increase in the number of unemployed, according to W. G. Paterson, director of the Edmonton offices.

Most of the jobs available for men are in the category of rough labor and officials are having some difficulty in finding men who will accept them. However, there are now more people working out of the Edmonton offices than ever before.

Young Marksmen Given Trophies At Gyro Meet

Members of the Gyro club were hosts to 24 of Edmonton's juvenile sharpshooters at their weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Macdonald hotel, when winners of the city's rifle shooting competition held in September, received their awards.

Dan. E. C. Campbell, regional vice-president of the Canadian Small Bore Association, announced the names of the winners of the various events and the presentations were made by Chief Constable Reg. Jennings.

Alfred Noak, president of Gyro, was in the chair.

The competition which was held at the Edmonton City Rifle Range at Bennett school was the culmination of a summer of rifle shooting organized for juveniles.

SPONSORED BY POLICE

The competitions were sponsored by the City Police in an effort to curb the unlawful shooting of .22 calibre rifles inside the city limits.

Several of the lads distinguished themselves in more than one event and received a variety of medals, brastards and gift certificates provided by local business firms.

Don Smith of the 24th Boy Scout Troop was winner of the senior boys' city championship and also captained the all star team which scored an aggregate possible of 300 with 20 "X" rings.

Second in the senior championship was Ross Curry, Air Cadets; third, D'Arcy Duncan, Air Cadets; fourth and fifth were Jack Brandon, City Rifle Range and Bob Dunsworth, Air Cadets.

All of the above were members of the all star team and received awards for their team work in addition to their individual awards.

JUNIOR AWARDS

The junior city championship award was presented to John Hoggard, 24th Troop; second prize went to Gordon Baldwin, City Rifle Range; third, George Honty, 24th Scouts; fourth, John Jones, City Rifle Range; and fifth, Maurice Legris, City Rifle Range.

The all-star membership of the junior team included the first three winners of the championship class with the addition of Jack Martin and Gilbert Myler, whose aggregate scores won them a spot on the team. Both boys are members of the 24th Troop.

The championship events were sponsored by T. Eaton Co. Western Ltd., with prizes in the senior and junior divisions consisting of silver, rifle-topped trophies.

The Edmonton Bulletin trophy for "Twa Frien's" match was awarded to Archie Olmstead and Stan Slainton of the 24th Troop. Second prize went to Jack Martin and Gilbert Myler of 24th Troop; and third, Paul Neuparth and Jack Brandon of City Rifle Range.

The Edmonton Journal trophy for the city team championship went to the Air Cadets; the 24th troop received second award, and City Rifle Range third.

MEDAL WINNERS

The Boy's Shop gold, silver and bronze medals went to Bob Dunsworth, D'Arcy Duncan and Don Smith respectively.

Uncle Ben's gold, silver and bronze medals went to Jack Martin, Bob Coxford and Gil Myler.

Henry Birks & Sons' gold, silver and bronze medals went to Jack Brandon, Douglas Sullivan and Ross Curry.

Mike's gold, silver and bronze medals went to Frank Dove of the Edmonton Regt. cadets, Geo. Honey and Larry Wingfield.

The Fish and Game Association gold, silver and bronze medals went to Ron Lagan, Alfred Schickle and Venner Logan, all of the City Rifle Range. The winner of each elimination match also received a brassard.

No Additional Meat For Festive Meals

Though both Christmas and New Year' day fall on a meatless day, Tuesday, this year, officials of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announce that no special concessions will be granted to restaurants, cafes or other eating places which might permit them to serve other than non-rationed meats. As they are permitted to serve fowl in any case it is hoped that an ample supply of birds will be available.

Unless they charged special prices for similiar meals in 1940 and 1941, they will not be permitted to boost their prices for the holiday occasion, and if they charged higher prices in previous years, they may not exceed the rates they then used.

In addition officials say, they must offer customers their choice of regular meals at regular prices.

Ald. Bisset Heads Memorial Group

Ald. A. Bisset, KC, veteran of World War I, was elected chairman of the Edmonton Memorial Committee at a meeting held recently at the Civic block. A. E. Nightingale, Sr., was named vice-chairman, and Capt. Harper Prowse, MLA, secretary.

It was suggested that the Cenotaph should be re-dedicated so that it would stand as a memorial to the soldiers who died in World War II as well as in World War I. It was further suggested that the dates 1939-45 be included on the Cenotaph just under the 1914-18 dates. The suggestion was made by Mr. Nightingale, who was the chief agency in the erection of the Cenotaph.

The committee concurred in a suggestion by Ald. Bisset that when a new City hall is erected it should contain a "Peace Room" designed on the same basis as the Peace Tower at Ottawa as a shrine to the dead.

It was suggested also that when a civic auditorium is built it should be dedicated as a memorial to the survivors of the war.

Winter Won't Halt Work of Clearing Land For Veterans

Cold weather is stimulating work on the Peace River veterans' land settlement scheme by freezing the muskegs and simplifying travel in low areas, said Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, Tuesday. He said work of clearing and surveying the land will not be impeded by the arrival of winter.

At a half section of land each, it is estimated that 30 veterans will be settled on the first area cleared and broken east of Wanham. Highway and railway serve the community.

RETURNS TO CITY.—Boris Margolus has returned to Edmonton after three and a half years service with the Canadian Army. He was overseas for one year with the 1st Canadian Intelligence unit. Before joining the army Mr. Margolus was with the Canadian Bedding Co. Ltd., and recently was welcomed home by furniture men throughout the city at a dinner in the Edmonton club. He is now enjoying 30 days leave prior to receiving his discharge.

Elevators Agree To Retain Grains For Extra 30 Days

Alberta, the minister of agriculture, Hon. D. B. MacMillan, told the press Tuesday, is confronted with a shortage of feed barley.

He explained that the elevators, to meet the situation, have agreed to maintain for a further 30 days a minimum of 3,000 bushels of coarse grain, oats and or barley, in country elevators. Until now the supply consists mainly of oats which is now being kept for 60 days expiring Nov. 30.

Naval Personnel Due For Discharge

The following have been discharged during the past few days: Bernard Henry Harrison, Nelson, B.C.; Carl John Hoff, 9212 106A avenue; Rodger William Hoover, Camrose; Robert Douglas Richmond, 10314 123 street; Edward Rudolph Simon, Killam; Louis Slipec, 11421 96 street; Elizabeth Audrey Smith, 10086 125 street; Josef Temunke, Wostok; Clarence William Hardie, 10758 115 street; Thomas William Forsyth, Clandonald; James Robert Cuthbertson, 10894 126 street; James Walter Buchkan, 10506 78 street; Ernest Oscar Henry Bjornstad, Evansburg; Francis L. W. Binnie, 14318 Stoney Plain Road.

Alberta Auditor At Ottawa Parley

C. K. Hucksvale, provincial auditor, and D. Borrowdale, of the audit branch, are in Ottawa attending the Dominion conference on provincial financial statistics which opened Monday.

Purpose of the conference, which was annual until two years ago, is to attempt to secure uniformity of system of reporting finances for the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Relief Likely Soon In House Shortage

Some relief may be experienced shortly in Edmonton's congested housing conditions through the admission of nearly 32 families to 8 of the Redwood buildings near the Jesuit College at 144 avenue and 127 street according to a telegram received this morning from F. W. Nichols, director of housing, Ottawa by A. Arnold, local head of National Housing Administration.

Letter received Monday by W. Lyle Watson, emergency shelter officer here, and by W. J. Williams, MLA, secretary manager of the Canadian Legion, from Brig. Colin Campbell, director of real estate, Ottawa states that eight of the buildings are to be made availble to the public until July 1, 1946 and thereafter on monthly notice.

Now that the Ottawa government has stated definitely that all buildings on the site will be required for the hospital by next July 1, the proposed plan to spend $800 per suite will not be carried out it was stated.

It had been planned to partition off kitchen space and wash and paint interiors and polish floors.

Because of the short period of occupancy for tenants it has been deemed unadvisable to spend this amount of money.

Award of Mention Is Won by Officer

Lt. John Francis Rodney, 25-year-old son of Lord and Lady Rodney, Fort Saskatchewan has received the award of Mention In Dispatches, according to an announcement from defence headquarters Tuesday. He was one of three members of the Canadian Army who were named in the most recent list of awards.

In colonial times the barn owl, useful destroyer of vermin, was shot on sight as a bird of ill omen.

Soldier Dead of Two World Wars To Be Honored Remembrance Day

W. H. THOMSON

Appoint Industrial Development Chief

W. H. Thomson has been appointed director of industrial development for Alberta, it was announced Wednesday by Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of trade and industry. It will be the new director's business to make and maintain touch with business seeking Alberta outlets or which would benefit by establishing its headquarters or branch here.

The new director is son of Mr. and Mrs. Gavin L. Thomson at Macleod, where he was born Feb. 28, 1901. He received his education in public and high schools there and at business college in Winnipeg.

After nine years with a bank he went to the sales staff of the Dunlop Tire Co. and Martin Senour Paint Co. at Edmonton and Calgary. From 1941 until last September he was liaison officer in Edmonton for the ration administration.

Provincial Building,
Edmonton, Alberta.

Noble sacrifice of the men who died in two world wars will be commemorated through solemn tribute in a service at the Memorial Hall and a march to the Cenotaph by veterans' organizations and military forces on Sunday next.

THE VERY Rev. Dean A. M. Trendell, padre of the Edmonton branches of the Canadian Legion, will officiate at the service in the Memorial Hall that starts at 10:30 a.m.

At 11 o'clock, the hour at which the armistice terminating the First Great War became effective, a cannon salute of one round will be fired and buglers A. Jones and A. Maines will sound Last Post and Reveille.

Following the service there will be a parade to the Cenotaph of veterans' organizations and auxiliaries, Canadian Army, RCAF detachments and a detachment from United States forces stationed here.

* * *

MILITARY AIDE of the RCAF Northwest Air Command will head the parade to the Cenotaph with the Canadian Legion pipe band also providing march music.

At the Cenotaph wreaths will be deposited in honor of the dead of two world wars and there will be a short address from Dean Trendell.

LAST POST by the buglers and a Lament by Pipe Major Henry Laing, will be followed by the national anthems of the United States and The British Empire.

COLORS of the Canadian Legion will be dipped in salute at the Cenotaph. G. Scott will command the color party.

Following the Cenotaph service the parade will move north along 102 street to Jasper avenue and east to 101 street where His Honor Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen will take the salute.

* * *

MAJ. R. C. ARTHURS, MC, will be parade marshal, with Jack Jones parade sergeant major.

Canadian Legion Members participating are to wear caps and medals.

Following are the various units participating in the parade along with the order of march:

Brass Band, RCAF; Canadian Legion pipe band; Canadian Legion; Canadian Corps Association; Army and Navy Veterans' Association; British Imperial Comrades' Association; Edmonton City Police mounted men; RCAF detachment.

Detachments from United States of America armed forces; 26th Signals; The Veterans' Guard of Canada, and CWAC; RCAF, including Women's Division.

PARADE ROUTE

West on MacDonald Drive to Cenotaph; north on 102 street to Jasper avenue; east on Jasper avenue to 101 street; south on 100 street to Memorial Hall.

ON THE FOLLOWING Sunday, Nov. 18, personnel of Northwest Air Command RCAF will hold additional services in honor of Edmonton and district men who died in the Second World War.

Services for Protestants will be held in Robertson church at 10 a.m., while Roman Catholic personnel will march to St. Joseph's cathedral.

Following church services the airmen will parade to the Cenotaph where a wreath will be placed.

Sqdn. Ldr. Forbes will officiate at the protestant service with Fit. Lt. Murphy in charge of the Roman Catholic service.

Former Captives Crossing Canada For Gt. Britain

More than 1,400 British servicemen on their way home after imprisonment in Japanese camps will pass through Edmonton on four special trains scheduled to arrive here on Thursday and Friday nights. The first special will be at the CNR station at 9 p.m. Wednesday and the other three specials at the same place on Thursday night, the first of them due at 9.00. The other two trains Thursday night are scheduled at 45 minutes apart thereafter.

AWAITING DISCHARGE. — W. M. Sassyn, 22-year-old, 9531 103A avenue, who is now at his Edmonton home awaiting his discharge which should be given him near the end of the present month. Young Mr. Sassyn served on HMCS Glace Bay on convoy work across the submarine-infested Atlantic for four years. His mother and a married sister at Vanderhoof, B.C., comprise the sailor's family.

Fourteen Units In North Areas Lagging in Loan

Fourteen of Northern Alberta's units still have to reach the 50 per cent mark in the Ninth Victory Loan campaign, and every effort is being made in these districts by organizers to reach the official quota by the close of the campaign.

Unfavorable weather and transportation difficulties have militated against the canvass in the districts.

ELEVEN UNITS are now over the top, and working to new self-imposed quotas. Sixteen units have passed the 70 per cent mark and are expected to reach their objectives within the next two days. Twelve units have passed the 60 per cent milestone.

Sales Tuesday in the rural areas amounted to $534,200 from 1,227 investors to bring the cumulative total of sales to $6,663,250 for 73.4 per cent of the $9,072,000 quota. This compares with $6,411,600 in the eighth loan when the quota achieved was 78.1 per cent of the lower quota for that loan.

THE FOLLOWING is a tabulation of the percentage of quota achieved by the different Northern Alberta units:

Films Previewed

The first of a series of previews of National Film Board films took place Monday in the children's room of the Edmonton Public Library under the sponsorship of the Edmonton Film Council and Junior Chamber of Commerce. In attendance of Howard Stutchbury, C. W. Gray, Alberta supervisor, acted as chairman.

Indoor Range Is Planned Here For Sea Cadets

Edmonton Sea Cadets of RCSC Warrior, already famous across Canada for their marksmanship, will have plenty of opportunity to improve their skill during the coming winter. At Monday's meeting of the Sea Cadet committee it was decided to provide them with their own indoor rifle range.

Plans for the project, introduced by John Watson, call for the erection of three prefabricated buildings, just west of the HMCS Nonsuch drill hall. When completed, the structure will be 96 feet long and 20 feet wide. It is to be equipped with specially arranged lighting and will be heated.

WON TROPHY

Last year, Edmonton Sea Cadets won the Hunt trophy which is emblematic of the Canadian small bore championship for Sea Cadets. One of their number, Cadet D. Martin, brought further honor to his corps by capturing the gold medal for the highest individual score.

Especially pleased with the decision to erect the rifle range is Lt. E. C. Ellinger, ED, executive officer of Sea Cadet Corps Warrior, who is also marksmanship instructor. He predicts that Edmonton Sea Cadets will shortly be "the shootinest in Canada." It is expected that more than 500 Sea Cadets will use the range.

Work on the new range will start immediately and it is expected to be in use before the end of November.

Monday's meeting was held in the offices of Roy C. Jackson, chairman, who presided. In attendance were Abe W. Miller, Wallace Mason, A. C. Emery, John Watson, and Brock Smith.

seems very understandable that TCA's experts should decide that service-trained and battle-experienced pilots haven't really got what it takes to fly commercial airplanes. It solves the problem nicely if they decide that it takes longer to train a service pilot than it does to train a man from scratch. It is a very convenient solution.

However, it turns out that as a matter of fact wherever the TCA pilots came into competition with service-trained men the service-trained men came out the better. On trans-Atlantic crossings the record of the RCAF pilots was considerably better than TCA's. The record of the service-trained pilots on the Northwest Staging route has not been equalled by any commercial outfit. And the service-trained pilots who obtained their "green tickets" actually have a higher standard of training than TCA's pilots have.

This is no reflection on TCA pilots who are among the world's best. It is merely a justification of the service-trained policy.

While fighter-pilots are certainly going to need further training before they are ready to handle twin and four motored jobs, experienced bomber pilots will be ready for commercial work as soon as they have brushed up a little on commercial routine.

DIFFICULT CONDITIONS

For example RCAF men who piloted bombers over Europe had to take their planes off under difficult conditions. They learned to be just as careful as any commercial pilot. Because when you have 2,000 gallons of petrol and five or more tons of bombs on a plane you aren't taking any unnecessary risks on take-offs.

Then they had to navigate without either beams or beacons for hundreds of miles out over enemy territory and find their way home again all in the dark. Often they had to land in fog and bad weather. They had to hit their target areas on schedules which did not allow for even 60 seconds error after flights of hundreds of miles.

Somehow I don't think that is easier than flying a planeful of passengers over the same route night after night and day after day. Somebody has been kidding Mr. Symington.

Ask Prime Minister Intervene in Strike Of Auto Workers

The Edmonton CCL Council at its meeting of delegates on Nov. 5, discussing the apparent crisis which has arisen at Windsor where automobile workers have been on strike for several weeks, decided to "call upon all its affiliated locals to organize for financial support at all union meetings.

It was decided to wire Prime Minister Mackenzie King to use his influence to withdraw the police forces and to pass the necessary legislation by order-in-council to provide that union security demanded by the striking workers.

The Edmonton CCL will call a public meeting of trade unionists and their supporters by next week end for the purpose of providing the widest local financial and moral assistance to the Windsor workers, and to ask or to give the co-operation to the Edmonton Trade and Labor Council in the effort.

Dick Memorial Books Received

The first books purchased through the Muriel E. Dick memorial library fund have been received at the Edmonton Public Library. They include works on rare specimens of pottery and porcelain with lavish illustrations, history of the Greek and Roman theatre and many others dealing with the fine arts.

These books have been obtained under terms of a gift by the friends and associates of the late Mrs. W. J. Dick, a well-known Edmonton social welfare worker who died suddenly last year after many seasons of activity in the city's theatre and art circles.

The volumes in this collection will bear special book-plates inscribed with a dedication to the memory of Mrs. Dick.

Mrs. Dick was formerly on the council of the Edmonton Museum of Arts and was a talented artist herself. She was the niece of the eminent artist, Montague Castle, and a friend of the English painter, Mary McLeish.

These books, when added to the collection, will be available to the public and will be on display in the library.

Poster Campaign Is Being Planned

In co-operation with the Dominion Fire Prevention Association, the office of the Alberta fire commissioner of the provincial secretary's department, is sponsoring a poster competition open to secondary school pupils.

Closing date is Dec. 1. The rules stipulate that poster designs must be not smaller than 12 by 16 inches, nor larger than 24 by 36 inches.

King Edward Park Credit Union Meets

A meeting of the King Edward Park savings and credit union was held in the King Edward Park Community League Hall last Friday. Before the meeting, the film 'The Alaska Highway" was shown.

This credit union was organized in March, 1943, with a membership of 15. Today the membership is 68, and the shares amount to $2,248.54. During 1945, $1,930 in loans have been made, totalling $6,470—of this $1,922.80 is still outstanding. So far there has been no losses of any kind, all loans have been paid, and none are behind in their payments. Loans have ranged from $20 to $1,000, and have covered such items as buildings, improvement to buildings, furniture, feed, horses, holidays and clothing.

After the first eight months of operation, a dividend of 1½ per cent was paid on all shares and at the end of 1944 a dividend of 3 per cent on shares and 20 per cent of interest paid by borrowers was returned to them.

Anyone living in the King Edward Park district, who is interested in becoming a member, should get in touch with F. Wingfield at 34866.

Deputy Minister Back at Office

J. F. Percival, deputy provincial treasurer, who accompanied Premier Ernest Manning and Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, to New York on the refunding negotiations, has returned to his office.

The ministers returned Tuesday and Wednesday of last week respectively, but Mr. Percival remained two days for meetings on provincial government business.

Death Crash Details Given By Witnesses

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta., Nov. 7.—Preliminary hearing of the case of Pte. Martin Hovdebo, home on leave after three years overseas, commenced in Grande Prairie Tuesday. Pte. Hovdebo was driving the car in which Monica Wrzosek of Webster met her death on the night of Oct. 19. After the inquest last Wednesday, Pte. Hovdebo was charged with manslaughter.

The first witness, Dr. L. R. Gamey of Sexsmith, testified that the dying Miss Wrzosek had been brought to him at 1:30 a.m., Oct. 20, and that she died shortly after.

BROWN-EYED NORMA Leonard, 17, of Sexsmith, testified that she had attended a dance at Sexsmith until 12:30 when she, Pte. Hovdebo, Monica Wrzosek, Edward Mosienko, Matt Kraska, Margaret Stirling and Donald McNaughton decided they would go on to the dance at Clairmont six miles away.

She was in the back seat, Hovdebo was driving and she said that she was quite nervous. The car was going at a pretty fair clip when it hit the ditch and turned over at least two or three times.

AFTER THE CRASH Hovdebo was still in the car, Monica Wrzosek was by the back wheel, partly under the car; Edward Mosienko was lying in a field twenty feet away, Margaret Stirling and Donald McNaughton were in the ditch on opposite sides of the car. She further stated that she saw no drinking in the car and that the returned man was sober.

Donald McNaughton, Sexsmith, testified that early in the evening of Oct. 19 he had gone with Hovdebo to Clairmont twice, both times to get some beer. When the party of young people left the Sexsmith dance at 12:30 to go to Clairmont, a third time to attend a dance, McNaughton admitted that he was pretty drunk.

He ESTIMATED that the car was going 45 or 50 miles an hour. Edward Mosienko, Sexsmith, was with McNaughton, Matthew Kraska, and Hovdebo on the second trip to Clairmont. He said that they had had a beer there and had also purchased a case of beer. He stated that in his opinion Hovdebo's condition was all right and his driving was very good until the accident. He said that within two miles of where the accident occurred, he could not remember a thing.

MATTHEW KRASKA, of Sexsmith, verified Mosienko's and McNaughton's statements and said that he had not been alarmed at the speed of the car. Margaret Stirling of Wembley, was called as witness but owing to the shock received in the accident she could not remember many details.

John Badiuk gave evidence of the accused's car backing into his car at Sexsmith on the night in question and that the accused used bad language when Badiuk referred to the damage done.

The hearing was adjourned until Nov. 8.
